Cops catch kid burglars

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

After receiving a tip from a resident, Antioch Police apprehended three juveniles between 10-12 years who were involved in burglaries to 21 vehicles on Feb. 5.

Detective Sgt. Craig Somerville said a resident informed the department of two youths checking the door handles of cars parked in the Antioch Community High School parking lot.

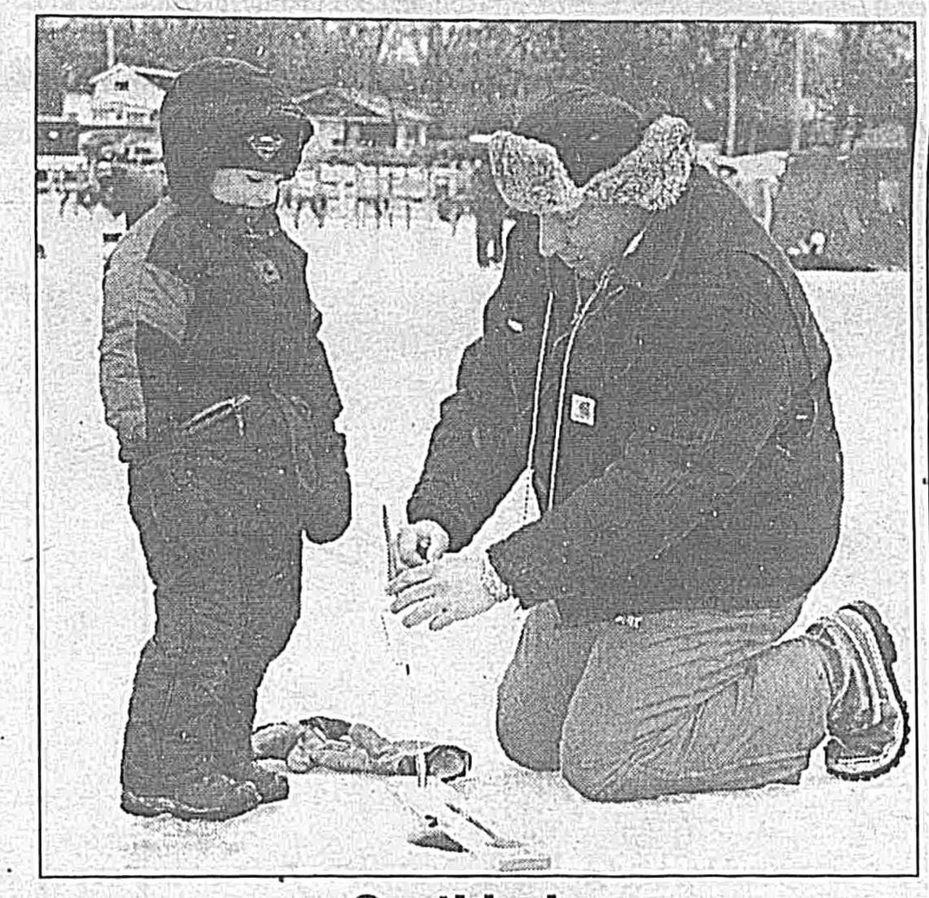

"The juveniles were searching for unlocked vehicles containing valuables such as loose change, cologne and lighters," said Somerville. Police recovered stolen property and returned to the rightful owners.

One of the juveniles was in possession of a small amount of cannabis.

"They will all have to go to a juvenile hearing with their parents at the Depke Juvenile Complex in Vernon Hills," Somerville added. The charges against the youths include theft, burglary to a motor vehicle and possession of cannabis.

Somerville reminds the public to refrain from leaving "eye-catching valuables" in unlocked vehicles.

He credits citizen involvement and the "quick and thorough response" of the Antioch patrol division with resolving this case. He said, "This is the second time within a month that a citizen's willingness to get involved combined with swift police response led to multiple arrests."

Big fish to fry

NICC uses ice fishing derby proceeds for yearly operating funds

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

To the untrained eye, it looked as though the Northern Illinois Conservation Club was on thin ice for this year's fundraiser. Fortunately, mother nature supplied about an 8-inch thick layer of cold, white mostly solid ice for the NICC 42nd Chain O'Lakes Ice Fishin' Derby.

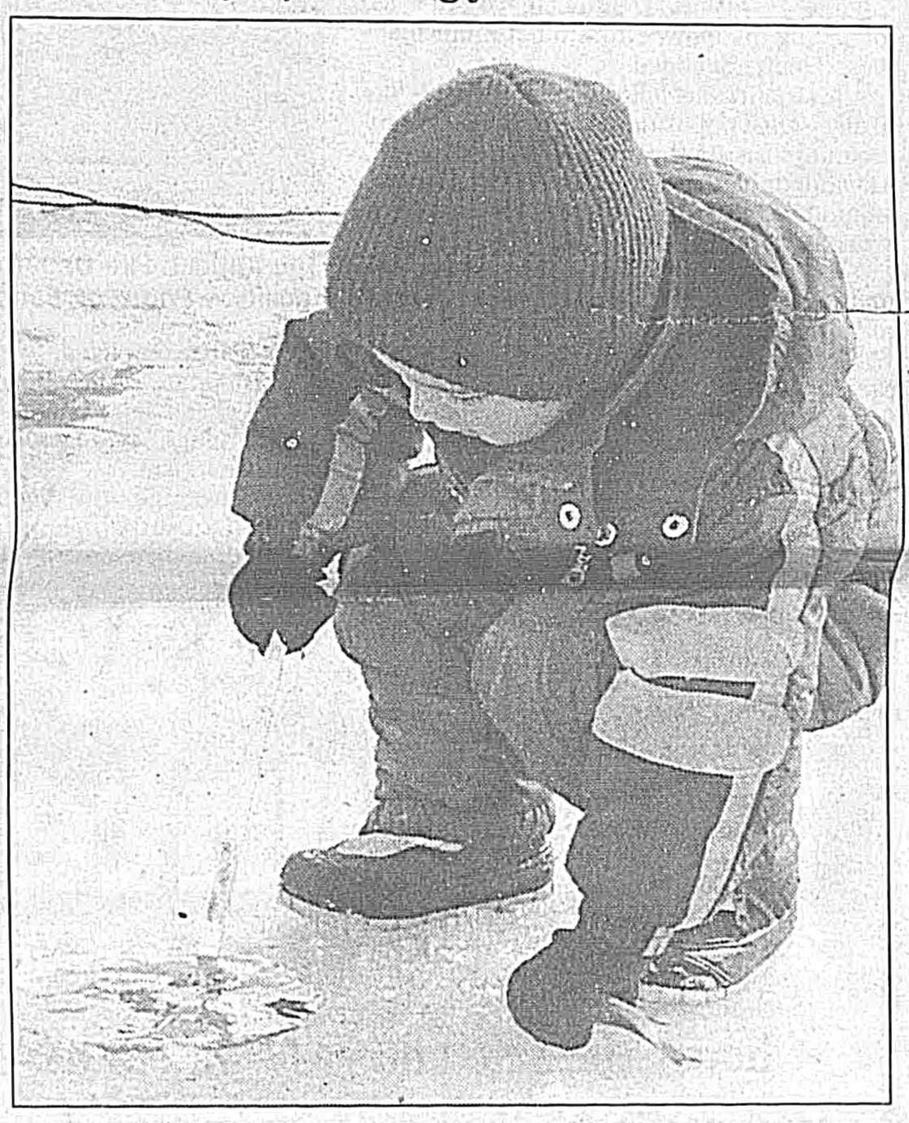

The club's president, Peter Poli, said, "If there hadn't been any ice, we still would have held the event but people would have fished from boats or off the piers. Any legal catch would count."

The headquarters for the event was at McDermit's Resort on Channel Lake and the two satellites being Pink Harrison's Resort on Pistakee Lake and K&S Kempf's on Petite Lake.

The event raises money for NICC, a group whose motto is "working for conservation." Additionally, two $500 scholarships will be awarded to one student from the College of Lake County and a second to a student from McHenry Community College Student.

The club maintains better than 62 acres of club grounds and donates to similar conservation organizations.

"All state rules apply to the Chain O'Lakes," said headquarters fish judge Mark Schwind.
The ten fish categories were muskies 48 inches or over; northern pike of 24 inches or over (daily creel limit 3); walleye, two fish between 14-18 inches, or one fish larger than 24 inches (daily creel limit 3); large and small mouth bass over 14 inches; catfish; crappie, striped bass; bullhead; perch; and blue gill, sunfish and rock bass.

Hourly fishing prizes were awarded for all ten categories at each claiming station for both the largest and the smallest fish. Fish could only be registered once. Overall length determined the winner in the largest fish contest. Prizes were supplied by Robinson.

No legal Muskee were caught.

Jerry Slager of Lowell, Ind. caught the largest overall Northern Pike, and Bill Cunningham of Wonderlake caught the smallest. Kurt Hucker of Antioch caught both the largest and smallest Walleye.

Curtis McGranahan of McHenry caught both the largest and the smallest large/small mouth Bass. Tom Clark of Lake Villa caught the largest catfish, and James Bishop of Chicago caught the smallest.

There was a tie between Steve Coles of Lake Villa and Kevin DeCarlo of Rockford for the largest crappie, Alex Balbour of Crystal Lake caught the smallest.

Doug Behrendt of Lake Villa and Rich Cheterbok of Richmond tied for the largest striped bass. David Tando of Roselle caught the smallest.

T.J. Foss of McHenry caught the largest Perch, and Kevin Whitaker of West Chicago caught the smallest.

Cheterbok also caught the largest Bull Head, and Hunter Carlstrom caught the smallest.

In the Bluegill/Sunfish/Rock Bass category, Carl Roecker of Mokena caught the largest and Nick Michalach of Antioch caught the smallest.

Winner of the largest fish for the Petite Lake location was Chris Diemer with a Bass. Jeff Parsons of Carpentersville caught the largest fish, Northern Pike, at the Pistakee Lake location. Slager's Northern Pike was the overall largest fish at the Channel Lake location.

The derby's grand prize was $1,000 cash donated by LP's Landing, Blarney Island & Port of Blarney and Poli Contracting, Inc. First prize was a two horsepower Johnson outboard motor donated by C. Haling & Sons Marina.

Festival activities were held at the headquarters and include a coloring contest sponsored by Great Northern Bank, carnival games and an ice shanty contest sponsored by Lyons/Ryan Ford.

PD takes on domestic offenders

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"It's a very serious matter," said Detective Sgt. Craig Somerville of the Antioch Police Dept. of domestic cases. "If the elements of an offense are there, we charge."

In January, the department made two such charges.

Jack D. Johnivan, 31, of Antioch, was arrested on Jan. 9 following a domestic incident.

Somerville said an active Dept. of Corrections parole violation was discovered during the course of the investigation. After verifying the warrant, Johnivan was arrested at his residence and transported to the Lake County Jail to await transfer to the Dept. of Corrections.

"Because of his parole violation, he will be back in jail for a while," said Somerville.

Jonathon C. Mathis, 20, of Trevor, Wis., was arrested on Jan. 21 for violation of an order of protection.

"Mathis was arrested following an investigation into an incident involving Mathis's ex-girlfriend that occurred in the Antioch Jewel parking lot," said Somerville. "A court-issued order of protection is a tool to de-escalate potentially violent and/or abusive situations. It's a way to restrict unreasonable behavior."

Mathis was charged with a class A misdemeanor that requires a mandatory appearance before a Lake County circuit court judge for setting bond.

As a result of the investigation, Mathis was also recognized and charged with a February 2001 robbery in Gurnee by Gurnee police detectives.

Robbery is a class 2 felony punishable by 3-7 years in prison.

"The Antioch Police Dept. thoroughly investigates domestic violence incidents and strictly enforces domestic statutes," said Somerville. "We take these situations very seriously because things it can escalate into even worse crimes."

Fire department works to recruit more firefighters

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Firefighters are needed in Antioch to man a third fire station that is in the works. The new station is to be located in the vicinity of Grass Lake Rd. and Rte. 59.

"We hope to have new members in and trained so that we will have people ready to man the station when construction is complete," said Chris Lienhardt, the department's information officer. If the weather cooperates and all else runs smoothly, ground breaking should take place this spring with completion expected in 2003.

Lienhardt said the last recruitment drive, about one year ago, was very successful with 12 recruits who graduated full training.

A new training class begins in the end of June, and the department plans to accept applications through May. Applicants must be 18 years old, be a high school graduate or have a GED equivalency and be upstanding members of the community. Applicants go through a screening process that involves a background check before being accepted by the department.

Additionally, applicants must live within Antioch Township. "We don't make a practice of getting manpower from other municipalities," Lienhardt added.

Assistant Chief Jeff Vandevoorde said, "It's really a great opportunity. All of the necessary training costs are covered by the department." He added that regular college costs might be reimbursed as long as the study is related to work at the fire department.

Women are welcome to join the department. Three women graduated with the last recruitment

"An ability test is given to make sure applicants are able to function and do the job," said Vandevoorde. "If you're in reasonable shape it's not too hard."

Both Vandevoorde and Lienhardt stressed that the job is rewarding but that it does require a good deal of commitment, particularly in the first year while the necessary training is being completed.

"There are certain benchmarks at which point we can send new members out to do certain things," said Lienhardt. "It's intensive for the first year."

On average, the department receives about 700 call per year. Vandevoorde said, "Some days there are no calls, and other days there are five calls."

"We want to start recruiting now so that we will be able to keep all of our shifts covered," said Lienhardt. "People don't work nine-to-five jobs anymore, and that makes it a little more challenging." He added that the department doesn't want to have a new building standing with no one to man it.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the fire department should pick up an application at the main fire station located on Holbek Dr. Further instructions will be given at that time. Prospective applicants with questions are encouraged to call either Vandevoorde or Lienhardt at 395-5511.

Martini goes for 3rd term

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The redistricting that has occurred in Lake County, increasing the territory of District 1, doesn't concern Judy Martini as she campaigns to serve a third term on the Lake County board.

"I had to pick up some of the population," she said. "The area is slightly different than before, but I think people know who I am and what I stand for."

Martini has strong feelings about growth and development and wants to ensure that the area's natural resources are protected.

She said she sees the planning that has occurred at the root of some of the flooding issues within her district. "I've been working to secure funding to alleviate some of the problems that have been caused by poor planning."

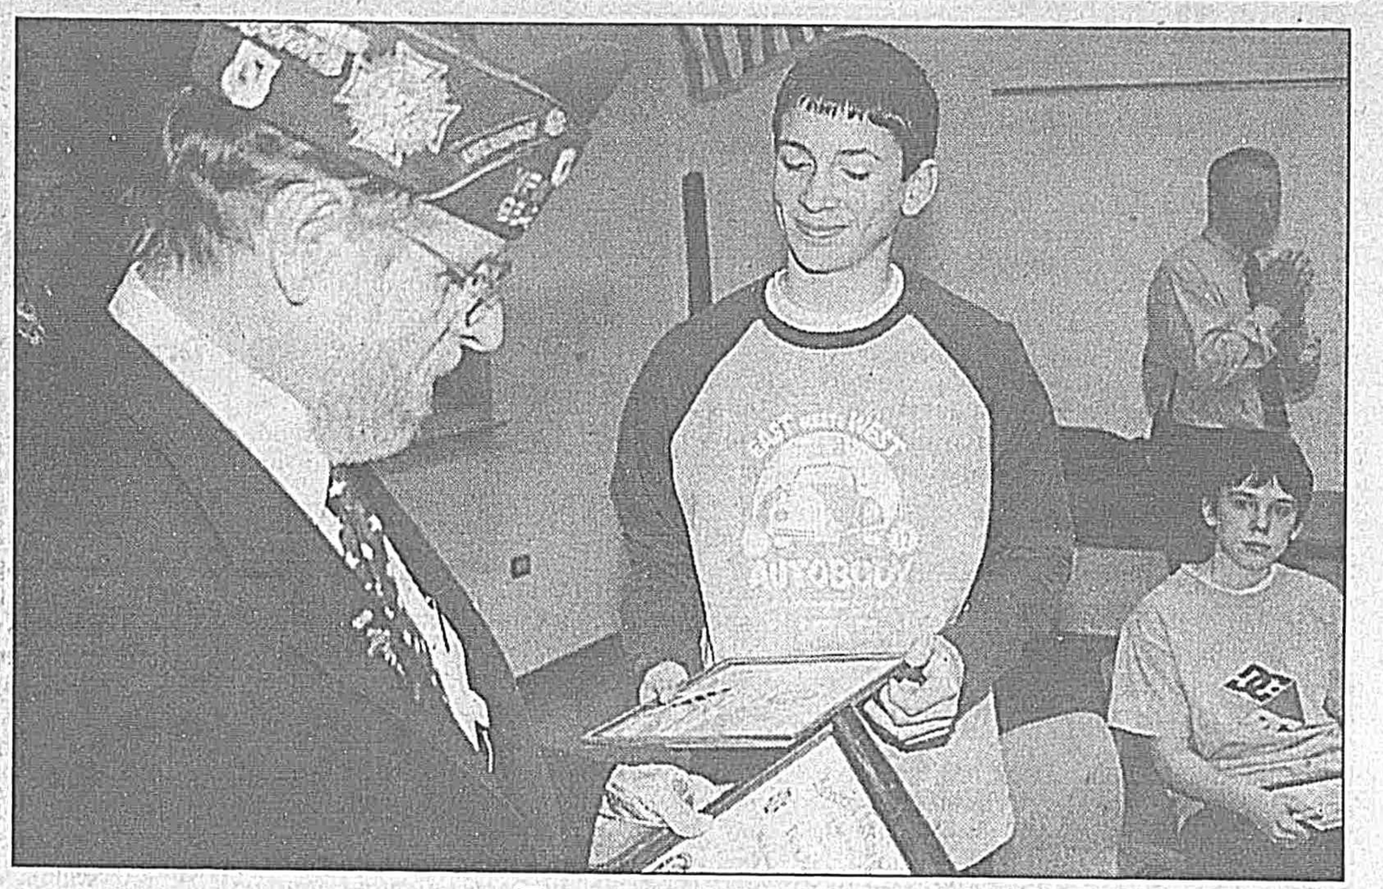

"My district is the biggest in Lake County with the most lakes and undeveloped property," said Martini. "I've been known for fighting over development. Since 1999, the forest preserves have purchased 3,000 acres and 1,000 of those acres are in District 1."

Water quality of the area's lakes is another issue Martini has worked to maintain and improve. "I worked to get funding to evaluate all the lakes in the county," she said. "We are implementing 'best lakes management' to keep our lakes clean."

Martini said she has served on 18 governmental committees in the past 11 years. Under these committees she has helped to see that the North Chicago VA Hospital stayed open and that a helipod unit was relocated from Michigan to Waukegan to patrol the Lake Michigan lakefront.

Additionally, she has served as chair of the legislation committee that is responsible for drafting agenda, and hiring lobbyists in Springfield and Washington D.C. "Sometimes it's stopping bad legislation that is as important as seeing good legislation approved," she said.

There will be a fundraising party for Martini at the Best Western on Rte. 173 in Antioch on Feb. 27 from 7-9 p.m. Peter Guerin will entertain and hors d'oeuvres will be served. The cost is $20.

Driver's courses offered by township

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Secretary of State Jesse White, in cooperation with township supervisor Stephen Smouse, is offering a "Rules of the Road" review course, free of charge, to residents in the Antioch area.

The course prepares applicants to pass the Illinois driver's license renewal examination by keeping them informed of current vision and driving ability portions of the test, and by studying the material for the written test and road sign examination.

Smouse said someone from the secretary of state's office runs the course. "It's mostly lecture with practice," he said. "Depending on the instructor, there may be a video or AV material."

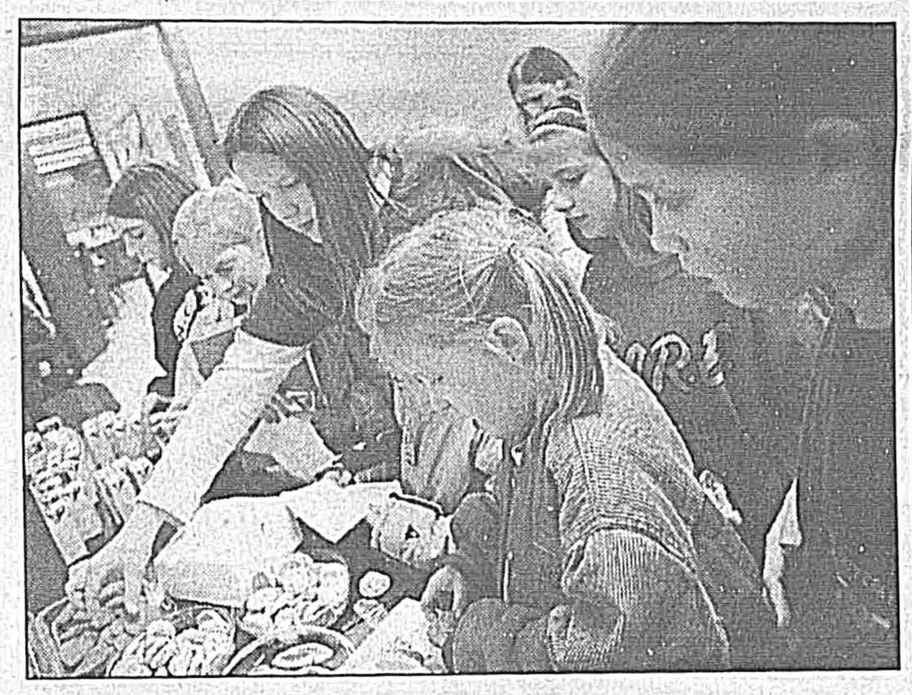

Smouse added that in some cases, but not all, insurance companies give a discount to those who have taken the course.

"I think participation is increasing a little bit," said Smouse. "There are more and more seniors who are still driving. This is a good way for them to freshen up their skills."

The course is given monthly on the following dates: Feb. 15, March 22, April 26, May 24, June 28, July 26, Aug. 23, Sept. 27 and Oct. 25. The class runs from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

"We've been doing these courses for a long time," said Smouse. "It's open to anybody, but it's mainly to help out the seniors because they have to take the test more often to keep their driver's licenses."

To sign up for one of the 2002 courses, register at the township office by calling 395-3378.

Utilities tax to increase

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Utility taxes will increase for Antioch residents. The only unanswered question is by how much.

Utilities committee chair Wayne Foresta called a special committee meeting to discuss findings and figures prepared by Mike Haley, village administrator. He wanted to get an idea of the board's temperament before draft ordinances are read at the regular meeting of the board of directors on Monday, Feb. 18.

> 'If we go with any type of step increase, we will continue to be operating in the red"
>
> Wayne Foresta, Utilities committee chair

The water tax rate will increase to cover the costs, currently in the red, of operating the village's sewer and water treatment facilites.

"The running of the plant should be self-sustaining," said Foresta.

Mayor Taso Maravelas asked what amount of money was needed, over and above operational costs, to do needed maintenance within the next four years. Haley answered about $1 million.

With the full proposed amount of increase, a water bill of slightly under $40 would be raised to about $54 for a two-month period.

If the increase were anything under the full amount, additional increases would have to be sought in subsequent years. "It's not a matter of going fast," said trustee Bob Caulfield. "It's a matter of stopping the bleeding."

Foresta reiterated, "If we go with any type of step increase, we will continue to be operating in the red."

"I would like to present this (ideas discussed and proposed rate increases) to the seniors and get their input before making any decisions," said trustee Dorothy Larson.

Information, education highlighted weekend of Feb. 23

While there are always plenty of things to do around Antioch, some weekends are busier than others are.

The Chamber of Commerce and Industry is sponsoring its Million-Dollar Expo on Saturday, Feb. 23 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. at the Antioch Community High School (ACHS).

The Illinois State Lottery and is giving out 1,000 lottery tickets to the first over-18 (years old) visitors. There will be other giveaways throughout the day.

The format is three-tier with the main booths in the north gymnasium, tabletop exhibits (for those requiring less space) outside of the main gymnasium and a craft show in the outlying hallways.

Mr. Fix-It, WGN and NBC's Lou Manfredini, will be a main attraction and will give a talk from 1-2 p.m. and will be available to answer questions.

There will also be mortgage information, health screening for cholesterol testing (at a nominal cost), accounting services, computer services, engineers, and builders among others.

The Antioch-Lake Villa-Lindenhurst Parent University has scheduled Kenwyn Hopper as keynote speaker for its second program to be held on Feb. 23 at the Antioch Community High School (ACHS).

Over the course, parents can participate in seminars and break out sessions geared toward giving them strategies for helping with communication and parenting skills.

Hopper's presentation, "Parents influence their children's esteem through their style of parenting," will take place from 9-10:30 a.m. in the school's auditorium.

Fees ($15 for the first family member and $10 thereafter) include all of the workshops, resource fair and a continental breakfast.

Classic car saved from fire

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

A classic car was saved from total destruction by the Antioch Fire Dept. as it worked to put out a garage fire on Prairie Avenue in the afternoon of Feb. 6.

"We were able to push the car out of the garage," said Chris Lienhardt, information officer for the department. "There was damage to the paint and windows, but the car was not a total loss."

The fire department was called to the scene at about 4 p.m. after a neighbor called to report flames coming from the outside of the building. "The fire had a good head start, but we got the fire out quickly and were able to prevent it from spreading," added Lienhardt.

The department thwarted the fire's efforts to extend to the house. Chief Dennis Volling said, "The garage was unattached and there was a risk of the fire spreading to the home. The first arriving engine company did a great job of stopping the fire spread."

The damage estimate is at $20,000. The cause is still under investigation, but appears to be electrical in nature.

Cathy L. Donnelly, 43, of 26372 W. Central, Ingleside, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Feb. 10 at 3:43 a.m. at the intersection of Windance and Southwind.

Police observed a vehicle to be stopped and facing eastbound on Windance with a person moving in the driver's seat. The headlights were on, but the car was not running.

Donnelly was hesitant to roll down the car window for the officer. The officer reported there five open cans of beer on the floor and that Donnelly's keys were next to them.

When Donnelly did open the car window, she told the officer she was sleeping. The officer "was overwhelmed with the strong odor of feces and urine" and asked if Donnelly was okay.

According to police, Donnelly first fumbled through her purse and finally found her driver's license in her pants pocket. The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on Donnelly's breath.

Donnelly exited the car and told police she hadn't been driving and that the beer cans were her husband's. She said she hadn't been drinking.

Though she said she hadn't been driving, Donnelly told the officer she had been parked in different areas of the neighborhood sleeping and that she had to go to the bathroom but couldn't hold it.

With that admission that she had been driving, the officer requested she perform field sobriety testing with Donnelly failing all tests requested of her.

She was arrested and transported to the Lake Villa Police Dept. where she was issued a DUI. Donnelly agreed to chemical testing with the result of .158 blood alcohol concentration.

Donnelly was issued additional citations for DUI over .08 and open transportation of alcohol. She was released on $1,000 bond and her driver's license pending her March 15 court date.

Brad L. Stickels, 39, of 263 Rainer Way, Fox Lake, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Feb. 7 at 2:22 a.m. on eastbound Grand Ave. at Oak Knoll.

Police observed a vehicle drift within its lane of traffic and the cross the fog line. A record check of the vehicle's owner showed that Stickels had a suspended driver's license.

The vehicle pulled into a parking lot and Stickels exited before police activated emergency lights.

The officer observed that Stickels was unsure and off balance. The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage on his breath.

According to police, the passenger interfered with field sobriety testing and Stickels was taken to the Lake Villa Police Dept. to complete the tests, failing all requested of him. Stickels was issued citations for driving with a suspended driver's license, improper lane usage, operating an uninsured vehicle and DUI. He refused chemical testing.

Stickels was released on $3,000 bond pending his March 8 court.

Jason A. Wilson, 33, of 2650 Brookwood Way, Rolling Meadows, was arrested on Feb. 4 at 1:55 a.m. on westbound Grand Ave. at Oak Knoll.

Police locked Wilson's vehicle at 49 mph in a posted 30-mph zone, he then drover over the fog line and onto the shoulder and then came back across the yellow centerline. Wilson then drove off the road onto the shoulder again nearly striking a chain link fence.

The officer knocked on the window twice before Wilson rolled it down. The officer detected a strong odor of alcoholic beverage coming from the car.

Wilson provided a driver's license but refused field sobriety testing, though according to police, he exited the vehicle and nearly fell several times.

Wilson was arrested and transported to the Lake Villa Police Dept. where he refused chemical testing. He was released on $3,000 bond (10 percent applies) pending his Feb. 22 court date.

Suspended driver's license

Javier J. Hernandez, 28, of 24486 Passavant, Round Lake, was arrested for driving with a suspended driver's license on Feb. 7 at 6:24 p.m. on northbound Rte. 83 at Petite Lake Rd.

Police conducted a random plate check and information came back that Hernandez had a suspended driver's license.

Hernandez was arrested and transported to the Lake Villa Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued a citation for driving while suspended. He was released on $1,000 bond pending his March 13 court date.

Young at heart

Joan and Ray Dolence, newlyweds, find love, like a fine wine, improves with age

For those who think love and romance are strictly the province of the young, this story will seem a fantasy. For those who believe in love as a powerful healing and rejuvenating force, this story is validation.

Joan Nemmers and Ray Dolence thought they had already experienced as much love as they could.

Each had been happily married before. Each had been widowed. Neither one knew that fate had been tracking their lives, with a plan to bring them together.

"We always lived somewhere near each other, but we didn't know it," said Ray, who admits to being "over 65."

When they were young, they lived a block apart on the same side of Jackson Street in North Chicago.

"I grew up there," Ray said. "I was four years older than Joanie, so I didn't hang around with her."

Joan, born Joan Carlson, went to Catholic school, while Ray went to public school, so their paths didn't cross much, but they did have a few friends in common.

"Years later, we went to the Croatian Cultural Center on Belvidere Road in Waukegan," Ray said. "I went there with Joanie, and we met a lot of my old friends there, who, it turns out, knew friends of hers, 50 years ago."

They had been shadowing each other for years, without knowing it.

"We lived on opposite ends of George Avenue in Waukegan," Joan recalled. "My husband worked in the office at National Press when Ray was a printer there."

They each married loving partners, and thought they'd been given their one-time pass to happiness.

"I was married for 35 years to a man with heart problems," Joan said. "I worried about his health for years. Then, one day, he slipped and fell. He hit his head on the ice and died unexpectedly."

Joan's loss nearly killed her own soul, as she went into a depression after her husband's death.

"My personality changed. I was dead inside," she said.

Seeking support, Joan discovered there was no bereavement program in the area, so she started a bereavement group at Prince of Peace Church.

It wasn't a therapy support group, but provided one-on-one help to people in the process of grieving, helping with funerals and offering comfort and advice during the process.

Meanwhile, just a year before Joan's husband died, Ray lost his wife.

Just as Joan initially withdrew emotionally, so Ray withdrew socially.

Admitting that men are more prone to isolate themselves in grief, Ray said, "I never got out, until my friend (later to be best man), Joe Turuc, got me moving."

Ray's friend told him about the singles' group.

"He said, 'There are a lot of women in this group, and I need help!'" Ray chuckled. He noted men tend to be "in denial" about their need for companionship.

Ray and Joan met at Lake County Christian Singles. Joan, one of the original members, had helped publicize the newly created group because there were few places where older single people could socialize.

Ray and Joan did not date each other at first, but went out to dinners and dances together with other members of the singles' club.

"I never thought I would get serious with anyone," said Ray. "I had no intention of ever marrying again or having a close relationship."

The wall Ray had so carefully constructed to protect his grieving heart crumbled to dust, ironically, in another moment of sorrow.

"Our mutual friend, Tom McGuire, died," Ray remembered. "Joan and I were sitting next to each other at his funeral."

During the funeral service, Joan reached out and touched Ray's hand to comfort him.

"That did it," he said. "It was like a bolt of electricity went through me."

Ray, who had kept his personal mourning bottled up, let go that day and allowed himself to feel the pain of losing those he loved.

"She opened me up," he said of that moment and many more that followed.

Joan encouraged Ray to go to different support groups, where he found others who were experiencing the same pain.

"It's hard to go back to your old friends (when a spouse dies)," Joan confessed. "It's hard to go on, but then you find out you're not as bad off as you could've been."

Joan found she was in better shape than many women who, after their husbands' deaths, are left with no money, no skills and no support.

After the funeral, Ray and Joan began to go out together.

"It was very casual," Ray said. "I escorted her to dances. It was just a friendship."

After they had been seeing each other for a while, Ray, admittedly "old-fashioned," asked, "Do I get a kiss?"

"I didn't want to encourage him," Joan laughed.

"It wasn't a big deal," Ray insisted. "It's not like when you're a kid, and you spend the evening anticipating that 'good night' kiss."

One day, when Ray was late, Joan got worried. She told him, "I guess we're in a relationship, now." Ray agreed.

Joan, who characterizes Ray as "a romantic," was taken off guard by Ray's off-hand marriage proposal.

Ray was afraid that if he waited for the perfect moment he would lose his courage, so he just blurted out the question.

"I wanted her to know I was having thoughts of marriage, and I just asked her if she would consider it," Ray said, reconstructing his casual approach.

Joan, ordinarily a cautious and methodical person, immediately said yes.

"I didn't think about it," she said.

The impulsive response was uncharacteristic.

Joan and Ray, who married on Sept. 22, 2001, have discovered they are yin and yang to each other, as Joan tends to be an organizer, while Ray is more spontaneous.

"He had new tires put on the car while 24 guests were waiting at our rehearsal dinner," she laughed.

"And I got the oil changed on the way to the ceremony," Ray added.

Lonnie Brooks live at Durty Nellies

Lonnie Brooks, a Chicago blues guitarist whose long and varied career began as a rock star in Louisiana and Texas in the late '50s, will appear at Durty Nellie's, 55 N. Bothwell Rd. in Palentine, on Friday, Feb. 15 at 10 p.m.

Brooks will set the stage on fire with his vibrant mix of rock 'n' roll, R&B, funky Cajun boogie, country twang, and hard Chicago blues, a style his band dubbed "voodoo blues."

Long before Brooks was headlining major blues festivals and sharing stages with the likes of Eric Clapton, he was forging his bayou-swamp-music-meets-Chicago-blues-via-Texas style. Born Lee Baker, Jr. in Dubuisson, Louisiana on Dec. 18, 1933, he began his career playing everything from rock 'n' roll to country & western and R&B. Originally desiring to play banjo (his grandfather was an accomplished banjo player), Brooks instead mastered the guitar. His first professional job came when zydeco legend Clifton Chenier saw him playing guitar on his front porch and drafted him into the famous Red Hot Louisiana Band. In the mid-1950s, Brooks, then known as Guitar Junior, cut a series of Gulf Coast proto-rock 'n' roll hits for the Goldband label, now considered swamp rock classics. He hitched a ride with Sam Cooke's touring caravan and got off in Chicago in 1960. Because Chicago already had a Guitar Junior, he changed his name to Lonnie Brooks, and jumped headlong into Chicago blues. He joined Jimmy Reed's touring band, and also recorded singles for Mercury, Chess and other labels in the 1960s, before Capitol released Brooks' first album, Broke And Hungry (under the name Guitar Junior) in 1969.

During the 1960s and 1970s, Brooks performed regularly in some of Chicago's toughest clubs. His big break came in 1978 when Brooks introduced four songs on Alligator Records' Living Chicago Blues anthology. The success of these recordings led him to a full recording contract with the label and a series of stellar albums. As anyone who has seen him in concert can attest, his live shows are legendary for kick-starting parties and spreading good times like wildfire.

Brooks will appear on the Main Stage at Durty Nellie's from 10 p.m. to 1:30 p.m. There will be a $5 cover charge. For additional information on Durty Nellie's music schedule, call 847-358-9150 or visit the web site at www.durtynellies.com.

The Museum of Science and Industry (MSI) announced a revision to its free day schedule, providing greater access to the Museum.

The schedule adjustment will provide for free admission to the Museum on:

- Mondays and Tuesdays now through Feb. 28
- the first Monday and Tuesday in June (June 3 and 4)
- Mondays and Tuesdays from August 19 through December 17

"Most Chicagoans come to the Museum during the fall and winter months, so in addition to the discounted admission every day for city of Chicago residents, this change gives all Chicagoans greater access to the Museum." said David Mosena, President and CEO of the Museum of Science and Industry. "This schedule now allows Chicagoans to enjoy the Museum of Science and Industry free of charge on Monday holidays as an extra benefit to a three day weekend."

Throughout the year, more the 700,000 people (40% of total attendance) visit the Museum of Science and Industry on its free day or for free as part of a school group visit. For the past four consecutive years, MSI has had the highest free day and school group attendance of the nine Museums on the Park.

YOUNG

"It was practical," he insisted, noting the service station was just across the street from the church, and he wanted to make sure the car was ready for the honeymoon trip to Branson, Missouri.

The wedding ceremony was held at Prince of Peace Church in Lake Villa, with Father Richard Yanos presiding.

All but three of the couples' combined 10 grandchildren were in the wedding party.

"We had two flower girls and six ring bearers," Joan noted. The two youngest boys actually carried rings, while the other four were "guards" in the processional.

Joan's ring turned out to be a surprise.

"Ray asked me to look at rings," she said. She pointed out the ring she wanted for herself, and insisted he would wear one as well.

"On our honeymoon, Ray asked how I liked my ring. I looked down, and it was a different one than the one I picked!" she laughed. "I just figured then that this was his way of telling me his was the last word."

Ray tells the story differently.

"I had already ordered a ring to match the engagement ring," he said. "I just wanted to know what kind of ring she liked."

The honeymooners have a different take on marriage than they did the first time around.

"The second time is so different," Ray observed. "I was only 25 when I married the first time. Now I have the emotions and experience of an older person."

Joan, who was 22 when she married her first husband, noted that the second time is both more difficult and more precious because of what she has learned about the ephemeral quality of life.

"You take the first one for granted," she said. "Later, you realize how quickly it can be gone, and you appreciate your relationship."

The couple believes they are more tolerant of each other's differences and faults than younger people might be.

"We're learning about each other every day," Ray said. "We really want to make a go of it, and we're doing quite well."

Each day, they make allowances for the variations in their personal styles.

Joan, used to a high level of communication, would get worried if Ray didn't call when he was late. Ray, on the other hand, had not been a great communicator in the past, but has begun to change in response to Joan's needs.

"He said he wasn't going to change, but in some ways, he has," Joan said.

The couple, coming from a more reserved generation, admit they were not prone to public displays of affection when younger, but now, cherishing each other, and aware of the temporariness of life, they don't hesitate to touch in gestures of tenderness.

When asked about the quality of "mature romance," Ray coyly smiles, "Let's just say, not as often, but much better."

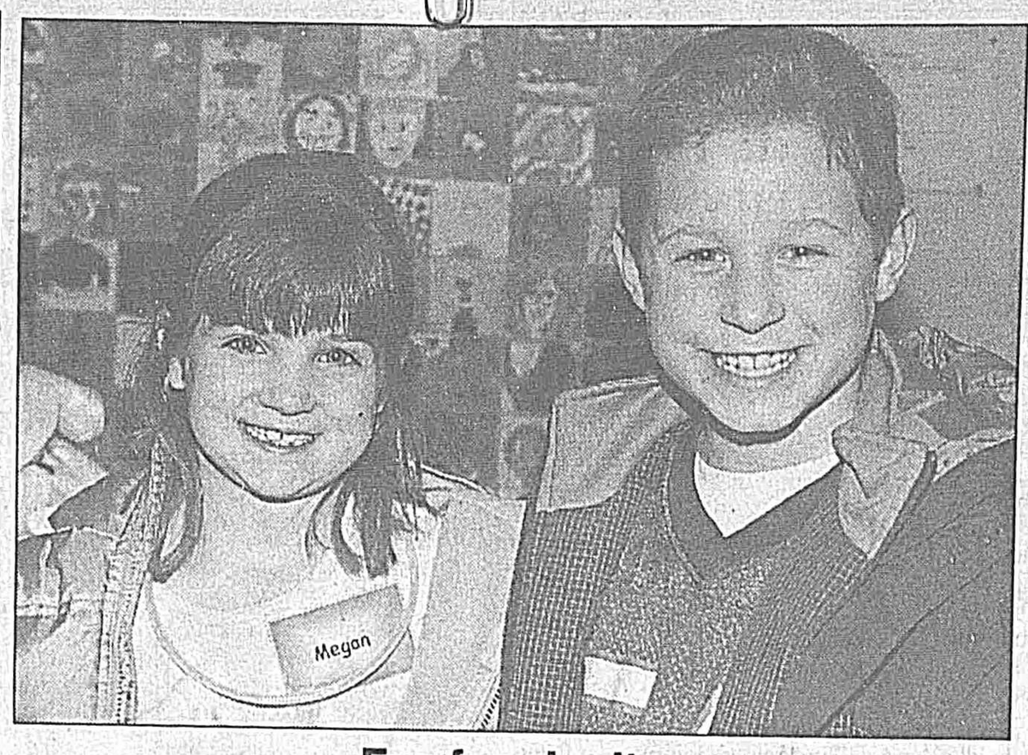

Through Joan, he has learned to be more expressive and demonstrative than in the past.

"She really opened me up," he said, his eyes bright with tears.

"Too often, guys don't show intense feelings," he remarked. "My advice is don't be reserved. If you feel you want to say 'I love you' to someone, say it. If you want to hug, do it!"

Ray admits he both looks and feels younger than he did a year ago, thanks to the reawakening of his emotional life with Joan.

While Joan notes she harbors some fear about losing a spouse a second time, she and Ray live very much in the moment, cherishing the gift of love, the second time around.

Fun for charity

Megan Bordwine, 6, of Gurnee, along with her brother Christopher, 9, are all smiles as they explore one of the many hands-on exhibits at the Evanston-based Leukemia Research Foundation's Kid's Party at the Chicago Children's Museum. The 5th annual event, held January 19, was a free party for 50 local children with leukemia and their families. Kids and families had private use of the museum, music and dancing in the Teen Zone and goodies provided by The Wella Corporation and Cosmetologists Chicago.

Shakespeare condensed at PM&L

The third show of PM&L's Season 41, has to be seen to be believed. According to the English "it's well known that Americans are too impatient to read much and have short attention spans," so the Reduced Shakespeare Company's play, "The Complete Works of William Shakespeare" Abridged, by Jeff Borgeson, Adam Long and Daniel Singer, takes that idea to its ridiculous and hilarious extreme.

With a cast of just five actors, they somehow manage to compress all of Shakespeare's 37 plays into just 97 minutes.

"Hamlet" is performed backwards, all the comedies are performed as a single play, and "Othello" is a rap song.

The show is the longest-running comedy in England's West End and one of the funniest nights you will ever spend at the theater.

Directed by Bruce Weise, the production runs on weekends Feb. 15-24. Show times are 8 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and at 2:30 p.m. on Sundays. Reserved seating tickets are $10, students and seniors, $8. For information or tickets, call 847-395-3055.

SPECIAL EVENT

Electrifying Alexander Toradze returns to the NSO

Northbrook Symphony Orchestras Music Director, Lawrence Rapchak, will present popular works by Mozart, Tchaikovsky and Beethoven, describing how each composer overcame great personal challenges in creating these works. On Sunday, Feb. 17 at 4 p.m., the Northbrook Symphony begins its concert with Mozart's Overture to the "Abduction from Seraglio." There was harsh judgement of Tchaikovsky's "new piano concerto," but he stood his ground, stating "I shall not alter a single note of it!" Lucky for us he didn't. The only way to follow such a symphonic repertoire would be with Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony.

Alexander Toradze

In addition, the dynamic pianist, Alexander Toradze, will return to the NSO as soloist in Tchaikovsky's famous "1st Piano Concerto." At Alexander Toradze's 1995 appearance with the NSO, many audience members leapt to their feet in a roar of appreciation, a phenomenon continuing at Mr. Toradze's performances to this day.

Add a bit of insight and history to the concert experience by attending the pre-concert lecture, which begins at 2:30 p.m. at the Sheely Center, and features guest speaker, Jim Kendros. The concert and pre-concert lecture will take place on Sunday, Feb. 17, at the Sheely Center for the Performing Arts at Glenbrook North High School, 2300 Shermer Rd. in Northbrook.

Tickets range from $15-$30, with $5 student tickets. Call the NSO for more information. Parking at the theater is free. For tickets call 847-272-0755.

THEATER

Chimps, golf and Unamunda?

The well-known world of Mr. Ives is hilariously bonkers and more than slightly askew in Bowen Park Theater's presentation of "All in the Timing." Visit a world where chimps are locked in a room in an effort prove the old adage about what chimps would write if locked in a room long enough; where a group of miniature golf players in a play that plays like fugue in a world once possibly ruled by dwarves; where the language of love is Unamunda, the universal language, and English is anything but simple.

"All In The Timing" plays Friday, Feb. 15 and Saturday, Feb. 16 at 8 p.m., with the final show on Sunday, Feb. 17 at 3 p.m. Ticket prices are $20; $15 for seniors, military and $10 for students (with ID). For reservations, call 847-360-4741 or tickets can be purchased on-line at www.ticketweb.com. On Sunday, Feb. 17, the Lake County Folk Club (LCFK) will present Joel Mabus in his fourth appearance for the club, at the Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf St. in Park City. Debbie Frank will open for Mabus.

Mabus has traveled over most of North America, playing for audiences large and small at music festivals, folk clubs, concert halls and radio shows. He has shared the bill with such luminaries as Joan Baez and John Prine, and worked the folk circuit alongside contemporaries such as Greg Brown, Sally Rogers, John McCutcheon and Bill Staines. For several years his music has been the theme for Public Radio's syndicated "Folk Sampler with Mike Flynn," and Mabus was a sometime guest on Garrison Keillor's first incarnation of "A Prairie Home Companion."

As a master instrumentalist on guitar, banjo, fiddle and mandolin, a vocalist of fine timing and phrasing, and a great song-writer of incredible dimension, Mabus is one of the most consummate performers on the circuit. His between-songs stories and observations are thoughtful, provoking and relevant.

The concert begins at 7 p.m. Tickets are $10 per person; seniors and students $5 and members of the LCFC, $8.

Help name Brookfield Zoo's dolphin calf

Vote on line; contest entry deadline is Feb. 22

Brookfield Zoo's dolphin calf, born this past fall, is growing by leaps and bounds, and it's about time he was named. Zoo staff has selected seven possible names, but is having a difficult time making that final decision. So, the zoo is having a contest to choose which name best suits the energetic 3-month-old. The name with the most votes wins.

Contestants should choose from the following names.

Arion—in Greek mythology a male singer with a beautiful voice who was saved by dolphins after being thrown overboard by jealous sailors

Canova—a town near Melbourne on Florida's central Atlantic coast

Dania—a town near Ft. Lauderdale on Florida's southern Atlantic coast

Marco—a town and island with beautiful fine white sand beaches on Florida's southwestern Gulf Coast

Micco—from the Seminole Indian word for "king" (me'ke) and a town near Vero Beach on Florida's central Atlantic coast

Myakka—a wild and scenic river near Venice in southwest Florida

Wabasso—a town near Vero Beach on Florida's central Atlantic coast

Votes, one ballot per person, may be cast on the zoo's web site at www.brookfieldzoo.org or at the zoo. Entry forms and ballot boxes are located in the Seven Seas underwater viewing gallery, the Dolphinarium, Zoo Shop, North Gate Shop, Bookstore and the Administration Building lobby. The contest ends Feb. 22, and throughout the contest, the zoo's web site will post how many votes each name receives.

All ballots with the most popular name will be entered in a random drawing that will be held on Feb. 23. The winner will be notified on Feb. 26.

For complete contest rules, visit the zoo's web site, or call the zoo at 708-485-0263, ext. 335. Brookfield Zoo is owned by the Forest Preserve District of Cook County and managed by the Chicago Zoological Society.

Natural Family Planning classes offered

The Couple to Couple League will sponsor a four-part series of classes in Natural Family Planning beginning at 6:30 p.m. at St. James Catholic Church in Kenosha, Wisc. The series will run Feb. 23, March 23, April 13 and May 4. The $70 fee includes all classes, materials and bi-monthly newsletter.

The method taught by the Couple to Couple League is a system of fertility awareness in which several symptoms of female fertility are used in a cross-checking way for the greatest reliability and confidence. According to the non-profit, interfaith organization, this system (called the Sympto-Thermal Method) can achieve an effectiveness at the 99 percent level in actual practice.

The League notes that this system is definately not the same as "calendar rhythm," and that it is an improvement over the single-symptom methods and it can be used by women with irregular cycles. Natural Family Planning can also be used to help achieve pregnancy for couples of marginal fertility. The classes are open to engaged and married couples.

The classes at St. James will be taught by Tim and Debbie Regner of Burlington, a CCL Certified Teaching Couple. The Regners have been teaching CCL/NFP for twenty years.

For further information, a free brouchure, or to register for the series, call the Regners at 262-763-5834 or Tom and Leslie Hazinski at 847-265-0765. Information can also be obtained by visiting the web site at www.ccli.org.

Veggie stir-fry, Hong Kong style

COOKING by the BOOK

Tom Witom

Martin Yan's Asian Favorites: from Hong Kong, Taiwan and Thailand" (Ten Speed Press, 2001) captures more than 100 authentic Asian recipes cooked by Martin Yan on his Public Television Series.

One of those, Country Veggie Stir-Fry, typifies a meal a working Hong Kong family might enjoy. It's easily prepared and, served over rice, makes a satisfying dinner.

This is the kind of recipe where improvisation works well. For example, we tripled the number of asparagus, a favorite vegetable, and also added a generous bunch of mushrooms to the mix.

Among other intriguing recipes, all colorfully illustrated, are Eight Treasures Squash Soup, Star-Studded Toasts with Shrimp Paste, Taiwan-Style Hot Pot and Thai Rice Soup.

Country Veggie Stir Fry

Serves 4 to 6

- 2 Tbl. vegetable oil
- 2 cloves garlic, sliced
- 1 red jalapeno chile, thinly sliced
- 6 stalks asparagus, cut diagonally into 1-in. lengths
- 1/2 cup peeled and diced jicama
- 1/2 cup drained canned baby corn
- 1/2 cup peeled and sliced water chestnuts
- 1/4 lb. snow peas or sugar snap peas, strings removed
- 1/2 cup chicken stock
- 1/4 cup Sa cha sauce*
- 1 Tbl. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. cornstarch dissolved in 2 teaspoons water

Place a wok over medium-high heat until hot. Add oil, swirling to coat sides. Add garlic and chile; cook, stirring, until fragrant, about 10 seconds. Add asparagus, jicama, baby corn, water chestnuts and snow peas; stir-fry for 3 minutes.

Add stock, Sa cha sauce and soy sauce; bring to a boil. Add cornstarch solution and cook, stirring, until sauce boils and thickens.

Transfer to serving plate and serve.

* Sa cha sauce was not something we could readily find. We substituted a mix of prepared fish sauce and hoisin and liked the results.

'Lend Me A Tenor' opens in Waukegan

When world famous Italian opera star, Tito Merelli, comes to Cleveland, it's bound to be the most successful fundraiser for the 1934 season of the Cleveland Grand Opera Company. There's just one problem, he's dead. Trying to find away to prevent the loss of $50,000 in ticket sales, the crafty Saunders convinces his assistant Mac to assume the role of Merelli and give the performance of his life. Pursued by a steamy soprano, annoyed by a singing bellhop and navigating through misunderstandings, will Max ever win the move of Saunders' daughter Maggie or will he even be able to survive the night? Ken Ludwig's "Lend Me A Tenor" is a wild farce of mistaken identities, slamming doors and love-struck ladies, played at a hysterically comic tempo.

The cast includes Jim Behr and Bruce Heskett from Gurnee, James Caughel and Jackie Stevenson from Beach Park, Sherry Fisher and Peter Sprenkle from Waukegan and Julie Pausch and Jennifer Wagner from Libertyville.

Under the direction of Richard Pope, "Lend Me A Tenor" will be performed by the Waukegan Community Players in its new venue, The Kiley Center at 1401 Dugdale Rd. in Waukegan. Show dates are Feb. 15, 16, 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. and Sunday Feb. 17 at 3 p.m. Tickets are available at the door or call for reserved seating or other information at 847-662-0181. The Kiley Center is located on Dugdale Rd., which is south of Belvidere Rd., (Route 120), east of Lewis Avenue in Waukegan.

Second film in series directed by Northwestern graduate

The award-winning film, "The Broken Hearts Club: A Romantic Comedy" will be presented at the College of Lake County on Friday, Feb. 22, as part of an independent film series. Instructor Robert Coscarelli will host the presentation in conjunction with his humanities course, Film and Society.

"The Broken Hearts Club" is a fresh, funny, real story about a group of gay men in Hollywood, their lovers and friends, and the often hilarious, occasionally poignant space in-between—that is if they can get any space at all. According to writer/director Greg Berlanti, it's also about something everyone can relate to, "how screwy and dysfunctional friends can be, but also how wonderful."

"The Broken Hearts Club: A Romantic Comedy" was winner of the 2001 GLAAD Media Award for Outstanding Film of the Year. Filmmaker Greg Berlanti is a graduate of Northwestern University's scriptwriting program and co-executive producer of "Dawson's Creek."

The film will be shown at 7 p.m. in Room D100 at the College of Lake County Grayslake Campus. The event is free and open to the public, but contains adult content and is not suitable for children.

Providing sage advice and, for several of the guys, steady work, is Jack (John Mahoney), beloved patriarch, softball coach and part-time drag performer whose restaurant is a social haven for the gang. "The Broken Hearts Club" will be shown at the College of Lake County on Friday, Feb. 15, as part of an independent film series.

Additional films to be presented in the series are: March 8—"Songcatcher" Director Maggie Greenwald explores the origins of rock, bluegrass, folk and country music in America by taking the audience on an exhilarating adventure across a part of America still rarely seen; April 12—"The Deep End" Co-writers/directors Scott McGehee and David Siegel pack a great deal of suspense in this updated screen version of a melodramatic 1940s crime novel. Tilda Swinton delivers an Oscar-caliber performance as a distraught mother determined to save her teenage son; April 27— "Hedwig and the Angry Inch" This film was the winner of the Audience Award and Directors Award and nominated for the Grand Jury Prize at the 2001 Sundance Festival. This film is an imaginative combination of hard rock, sexual politics, cartoons, hard-hearted moms and drag queen makeup.

For information about the film series, call 847-543-2623.

Gurnee Rotary benefits A Safe Place with film Premiere

Non-perishable food items and/or paper products will gain admission to the Chicago film premiere of "Best Man in Grass Creek," a romantic comedy featuring the Gurnee Rotary's own club president Al Leinonen.

The 10 a.m. film showing on Saturday, Feb. 16, at Marcus Cinema in Gurnee Mills, is being made possible by a collaboration of Heartland Film Festival, Marcus Cinema and the Rotary Club in Gurnee. Pantry donations will be presented to A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center.

"Best Man in Grass Creek" is a whimsical comedy about discovering love and the risks involved in losing it. In order to obtain true happiness, Adam Lewis must overcome the memory of being stood up at the altar.

He is a newspaper syndicate sales executive about to be fired for not selling a single comic strip. When Jimmy, an editor, agrees to buy the strip, Adam is relieved that his job will be saved. The editor, though, has one condition before the deal can be sealed, Adam must serve as his best man at his upcoming wedding.

Despite the fact that Adam and Jimmy are complete strangers and that Adam has a phobia of weddings, he agrees in order to keep his job.

When Adam and his girlfriend Holly arrive in the small farm town of Grass Creek, Ind., they discover that Jimmy has been stretching the truth, telling everyone that he and Adam were best friends. Soon enough, Adam's fear of marriage rubs off on Jimmy. The bride's ex-boyfriend starts causing trouble and eventually the drama surrounding the wedding puts Adam and Holly's own relationship in jeopardy. The film has a strong dose of humor and laughter with heart and thought about what love truly is.

Leinonen, who is making his speaking debut in a feature film, brainstormed the idea of having the film's premiere in his own backyard, so to speak, and letting the family event benefit a charity that the Rotary Club of Gurnee has long sponsored.

Doors will open at 9 a.m. The film is rated PG.

A Safe Place is the only comprehensive program for survivors of domestic violence serving Lake as well as McHenry and northern Cook counties. The nonprofit agency provided 13,650 nights of shelter to women and children last year. A 24-hour help line is available at 847-249-4450.

Registration deadline for next ACT March 1

College-bound high school students can take the ACT Assessment on April 6, the next nationwide test date. The registration postmark deadline in March 1. Late registration postmark is March 15 (an additional fee is required for late registration).

ACT scores are accepted by virtually all colleges and universities in the nation. The test fee is $24. Colleges use ACT scores, along with a student's high school GPA, the type of college-prep courses taken and other information to help determine admissions and the appropriate course placement for new students.

The ACT Assessment is an achievement test in English, reading, math and science. It measures what students have learned in high school, and the skills required for success in college. It is not an aptitude test. Some students find it more comfortable than an aptitude test because it reflects their high school curriculum. The ACT was administered to students nearly 2 million times last year.

Students who have already taken the ACT can take it again and try for a higher score. Juniors can use their scores to examine academic weaknesses, take courses to correct those weaknesses and retake the exam as seniors. Students who take the exam more than once can report only their highest composite score to prospective colleges it they choose.

For more information, including registration forms and test locations, contact your high school guidance counselor or register online at the ACT's web site, www.act.org. The web site also has helpful information, sample tests and the opportunity to order test prep materials.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Final jingle

I wish to inform the good folks of Antioch as to why they no longer are able to find "Jingle from Pringle" in this publication.

This newspaper decided my style of writing was not going in the direction they preferred. It was requested that I do more "newsworthy" articles about our town and my children's school. Now although St. Peter is an absolutely wonderful school, there is already a stay-on-the-run mom who takes care of that matter and it would just free up way too much of her time if I took over.

I have enjoyed coming into your homes each week and I do want to thank all of you who inspired stories, whether you knew it or not. Perhaps now that I have turned off my lap top I will find friends again who aren't guarded with every conversation and my darling husband, bless his heart, will no longer end each household discussion with "no Neal stories."

This was a job, just like any job. Some days I would slave over mediocre columns and other days the creative juices would write the story on their own. Once I wrote an entire column on an old deposit slip while standing in the check out line at Piggly Wiggly. So I have chosen the road less traveled and opted for retirement.

My writings were never meant to leave my readers "informed" as was recently requested of me by the publisher. My whole purpose was to just reassure the good people of Antioch that they didn't stand alone in dealing with sarcastic teenagers, over zealous animals, whining spouses, and overbearing in-laws. I wanted people to realize that their life was just as dysfunctional as their neighbors, the neighbors just dressed different or drove a fancier car. Although my "single-subject commentaries" are no longer acceptable, least they were a break from the Neumann Home fiasco and the daily political power struggles that dominate today's headlines.

If a reader turned the page with a laugh, a chuckle, a smile, even a slight grin or nod of agreement, my mission was accomplished. And so the time has come to move on as I thank you for your acceptance of my ramblings and I bid all of my loyal readers, all three of you, a final farewell, as this is the final Jingle from Pringle.

Antioch resident receives Richmond Rotary award

Antioch resident Kathryn Hausman was named Richmond Rotary Club's person of the year. She was awarded a plaque to commemorate the distinction at the annual holiday dinner.

Hausman has served as the library director of the Nippersink District Library in Richmond for the past 18 years. Her work at the library, including efforts to build the new library, were among the reasons she was chosen.

Hausman's husband, Tom, helped get Kathryn to the dinner without her knowing she had been selected for the award.

Kathryn said she hopes all area residents will take advantage of the new library facility and looks forward to continuing to serve the district's reading and information needs.

Antioch resident Kathryn Hausman, left, was named Richmond Rotary Club's person of the year. Fellow Rotarian Andriene Adams presented her with the award.

Get a grip

Believe it or not, with the mild winter the Midwest has been experiencing this year, people have been playing golf. The crazy ones, anyway.

But for those who find it a little too frigid, here's another option—check out the 19th Annual Chicago Golf Show, held at the Donald E. Stephens Convention Center in Rosemont on Feb. 15-17.

Numerous exhibits, club testing stations and free instruction offered by golf professionals from Illinois and throughout the country are sure to tickle your golf taste buds.

This year's show will also feature a first in that three national equipment brands and three major golf retailers will appear. Ping, Taylor Made-Adidas and Nike will each have their own 20-by-40 sq. foot display areas. Hitting stations will be set up at each so fans can sample the latest in new clubs.

"We've had a record year for booth sales," said Barry Cronin of Cronin Communications, Inc.

"It's a very interactive event, with ongoing seminars, putting contests and hitting stations where people can test out the newest in golf clubs and equipment."

Fans will also have the opportunity to test out the new Wilson 'True' golf ball.

"Wilson says this ball rolls straighter than others," said Cronin. "Putting greens will be set up so fans can test it out. There will also be a long putting contest."

Local golf equipment manufacturers such as Wilson, Northwestern Golf, Tour Edge and Vulcan Golf will be returning as well.

There will be plenty of other attractions even for those not golf-inclined, such as valuable door prizes and displays from more than 100 golf resorts from over 20 states.

The Golf Show will also feature exhibitions by renown teaching professionals like Marty 'Long Ball' Joyce, 2000 Illinois PGA Teacher of The Year John Green and Katherine Roberts, founder of "Yoga for Golfers."

And speaking of golf, we all lose clubs from time to time. Now there's a solution. Inventor Paul Didier's 'club out alerter' has already hit the market and should continue to yield good results as the season nears.

St. Charles-based Game Time Promotions is currently the only distributor right now. According to Game Time's President and CEO Roger Stanton, the 'club out alerter' will most likely appear in retail stores this spring.

"It's operated manually. It's a fluorescent pole that hooks on to the top of your golf bag. Anytime you take more than one club, you simply press the top of the cylinder and the pole pops out. It serves as a reminder for when you return to your bag that you've forgotten a club."

For more information or to order your club out alerter, check out the web site at clubsout.com.

"With economics and clubs being so expensive today, I think this is going to be a hit," said Stanton. "The average public golf course gets 20-30 lost clubs turned in every week."

Interested parties can also call Stanton at 630-258-7590 to order the club out alerter.

Vernon Hills High School will be the host site for this year's Universal Cheerleaders Association Competition, The Windy City Classic. The competition will be held Sun., Feb. 24 and will feature more than 600 cheerleaders from four states. This is the second time Vernon Hills H.S. has hosted the event.

John Phelps can be reached at 847-223-8161, ext. 132; fax (847) 223-8810; or e-mail at edit@lnd.com.

Season over, but they will be back

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

The horns, a head coach Debbie Bessette calls them, needed perhaps a little more sharpening when it came to the sectional gymnastics meet last week at Stevenson.

"Be beastly and grow those horns," the coach said, making inference to the game face and intensity she likes seeing in her team, especially at big meets.

The Antioch varsity gymnasts might not have anyone headed to the IHSA State meet Feb. 15-16 at Palatine High school. But fans around the county will be hearing from most of these girls for the next 2-3 years.

With over 90 percent of the team being freshman, Bessette has good reason for optimism heading into next year.

"This is new for us. Instead of having qualifiers (for sectionals) in just a couple of events, we had three all-arounders and a couple of individuals make it to sectionals this year," said Bessette.

The all-around gymnasts who made the trip to Stevenson included freshman Angel Simonini and Katie Collins, and sophomore Amanda Wagener, a state qualifier last year on beam.

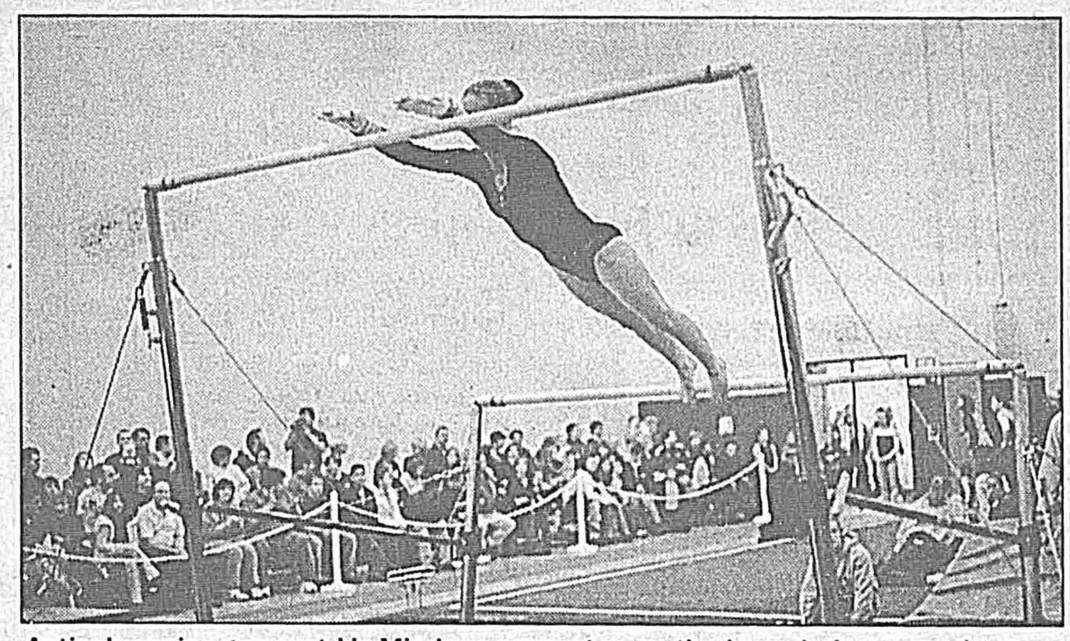

At sectionals, Simonini, nursing a nagging back injury sustained last summer, finished the highest (27th) in the all-around with a score of 34.250. Her night included a 9.0 on vault and an 8.825 on the floor exercise.

"The back is still pretty sore," said Simonini. "But this season was a good learning experience. We hope to be back next year."

Another one of the walking wounded was Collins, who suffered a sprained left ankle (and possibly a stress fracture) during practice a few days before sectionals.

Still, 'Sliver', as Collins is affectionately referred to as by her teammates, finished with an 8.825 on vault and an 8.475 on floor in this, her first season of competing.

"Hey, I competed with a sprained ankle," said Collins. "I obviously wasn't at my best tonight. I just tried to get into the music during the routines. It helped block the pain out. But overall, I was really satisfied with the season. Now I have a good idea what competition, especially at this level, is all about."

Antioch senior gymnast Liz Miedona competes on the bars during a regular-season dual meet. During her four-year career at ACHS, Miedona was a two-time sectional qualifier.—Photo by Steve Young

And then there's Amanda Wagener, a.k.a. Stanley. Wagener, despite falls on the floor and beam, still managed a first on the vault discipline.

"She did a handspring one-and-a-half," said Bessette. "That was totally new for her. But that's what you have to do at this level—go all out with your tricks."

The result for Wagener on the vault—an 8.950. Wagener also scored an 8.550 on floor, an 8.225 on bean and an 8.075 on bars.

It was a bittersweet sectional for departing senior Liz Miedona.

That's because on the bars, Miedona pulled off what in gymnastics is called a giant.

"While in the handstand position you do a full swing (on the bars)," said Miedona, recovering from the flu heading into sectionals. "It's always been a goal of mine since freshman year to do that. I also made it to sectionals twice in my four year, so I was pretty satisfied with my career here. I certainly grew up a lot. I'll miss the team and all of the fun we had. This was a great bunch of girls we had on the team this year."

The Sequoits also say goodbye to senior Robyn Deckert, a four-year varsity gymnast.

But according to Bessette, "Two freshman and one sophomore going to sectionals this year—each year keeps getting better and better. We're definitely expecting even bigger and better things for next season."

During the off-season, several of Bessette's girls train at the Gymnastics Zone in Antioch.

"Working hard and continuing to practice—that's what it's all about," the coach said.

Season ends but future looks promising

Going into the first round of the IHSA playoffs, Antioch knew they had a tough hill to climb playing top-seeded Lake Zurich.

That hill turned into a mountain Feb. 11 as Lake Zurich ran over Antioch 68-17 in Lake Zurich.

"We knew they were a very good team, and we played good defense for the first quarter," said Antioch head coach Don Zeman. "Our plan was to get the ball inside, and we found it almost impossible to get the ball inside."

Antioch found itself trailing Lake Zurich 17-8 after the first quarter and 32-12 at halftime. Antioch proceeded to score just five points the entire second half.

Lake Zurich's All-state, All-American, University of Iowa-bound forward Johanna Solverson was held to just five points in the first half, before coming out with a 10-point third quarter. Solverson played only a fraction of the second half. Lake Zurich's main source of scoring came from 6-1 forward Patti Hornung, who contributed 17 points.

Alex Mika paced Antioch with six points in the losing effort.

The loss ended the Sequoit's season and gave them a final record 10-18.

Mika led Antioch in scoring this season averaging 15 points per game while shooting 50 percent from behind the three-point arc. Starla Williams led the Sequoits in rebounding with nine rebounds per contest while Emily Bock, coming off the bench for the better part of the season, led the team in assists with 38.

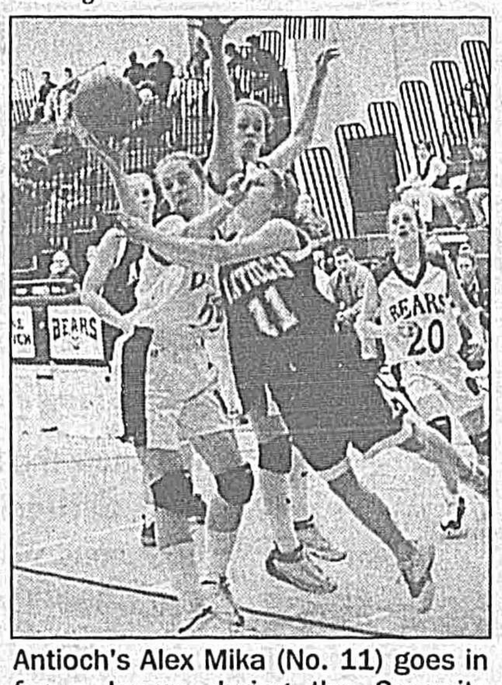

One of the things to look forward to if you're a Sequoit fan is the fact that Antioch will only lose one player to graduation. Meredith Nelson, the team's lone senior, will be the only player missing from next year's squad.

The team's leading scorer, rebounder, and assist leaders will all return next season.

According to Zeman, next year's squad looks to be very strong defensively. However, the offense will remain a question. Antioch will get a giant boost from a strong sophomore team that went 19-4 this season.

"The key is to blend the two groups together to be successful," said Zeman.

Although te Antioch season is over for the majority of the team, three Sequoit's will advance to the second round of the IHSA three-point shootout. Mika, Bock, and Dina Izenstark will all compete Feb. 14 at Lake Zurich.

Bittersweet ending for Lady Sequoit bowlers

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

In its first trip to state since 1994, Antioch head coach Steve Haenchen just wanted his team to qualify for the second day of the tournament.

Although the Sequiots improved on their sectional score of 4,868 pins, they failed to qualify for the finals at Cherry Bowl in Rockford.

Antioch shot 4,990 to finish 19th out of 24 teams, missing the cut-off of 5,206 pins.

"It was a little disappointing," said Haenchen of his team's finish. "But the fact that we shot as well in the second half as most of the team that made the cut took some of the sting out of it."

The team's best individual, Susan Carlson, finished 82nd with a score of 1,042, missing the cut of 1,124.

Other Antioch competitors included: Jackie Feldman (97th, 1,010), Susie Martz (134th, 859) and Kelly O'Connell (140th, 788).

Rachel DeBoer (171st, 421), Katie Lyons (174th, 386) and Tricia Moor (190th, 128) also saw limited action for the Sequoits.

"It was great experience for the team just to be there," said Haenchen. "It's a good building block for next year."

Despite failing to reach the team's goal in the state tournament, Haenchen is still pleased with his team's season.

"I'm very pleased with the season overall," said Haenchen. "We bowled much better at the end of the year."

Even though the Sequoits will lose Carlson and Feldman to graduation, expectations are high for Antioch next year.

"We're hoping for a repeat performance next year," said Haenchen, whose team returns five players. "We want to make the cut and maybe finish in the top six in the state."

On a related note, Libertyville's Sarah Weller (t-41st, 1,117) and Laura Pfeiffer (90th, 1,031), Warren's Tabitha Lanning (106th, 999) and Vernon Hills' Brooke Abercrombie (108th, 996) also competed in the tournament but failed to make the cut.

Libertyville pals serve country in time of need

By DENYS BUCKSTEN
Community Editor

Two friends who grew up in a picturesque Libertyville neighborhood now find themselves playing key roles in America's War on Terrorism.

Christopher Lang and Scott Schroeder, who became pals before pre-school, played baseball, swam and shared classes together at Libertyville High School, and graduated in 1990, share a sense of patriotism and determination that has put them center stage in a war that America shows no signs of going soft on.

The childhood friends are now better known as Lt. Christopher Lang, of the USN Medical Corp., and Capt. Scott Shroeder of the U.S. Army Special Forces.

Lang, a University of Illinois graduate, completed medical school and went right to flight school in Pensacola, Fla. He was based on the island of Crete in support of the Mediterranean fleet and the recent hostilities in Kosovo. He is trained in combat casualty and he is attached to a squadron that flies special missions for senior Defense Department officials.

Schroeder attended West Point, graduating in 1994, and from there went to Fairbanks, Ala., for three years, where he received Army Ranger training, doing so well that he moved on to Special Forces training.

Schroeder has had five deployments in Africa in the last 18 months and has already experienced death in the ranks. While training in Florida in 1995 and 1996, two Ranger trainees died. And on a recent African trip, one of the men on Schroeder's eight-man team died of malaria.

Schroeder is presently back in the U.S. on a short leave, but will be deployed again after the first of the year, said Sandra Schroeder.

Lang is 30 and Schroeder will be 30 in January.

Capt. Scott Schroeder of the U.S. Army Special Forces

To Chris Lang, the career decisions he made are not take-backs. "We all have decisions to make. And I could have done different things in different ways, but if I had to do it over, I would do this again."

The family backgrounds of both men played major roles in their views on America, patriotism and serving the public. Lang's father, attorney Howard Lang, served in both the Air Force and then as an officer in the U.S. Navy, and for 27 years after that, in the Navy reserves.

Lt. Christopher Lang of the USN Medical Corps.

Scott Shroeder's sister Heidi is married to a Green Beret in the same unit as Scott. Scott's mother, Sandra, has served as a flight attendant for United Airlines for 35 years.

And Jerry Schroeder, who died earlier this year, was a veteran of the Air Force, serving as a pilot.

Chris Lang said "Scott and I have been best friends since I can remember. We lived a block away from each other off of Lake Street, played on the same baseball team, swam together, and had several classes together. But above and beyond sports, we were both good friends. And we both had family in the military."

The idea of entering armed conflict is one that both young men considered seriously. "When we entered the military," said Lang, "it was a time of peace in America. Desert Storm had died down, but there were still small conflicts all over the world that you were attuned to when you joined the service and there was always the possibility that you would have a deployment to one of those spots.

"When I entered the military it was to serve my country. First and foremost we are trained to serve and protect. In my field it's more of a serving to medical needs. Flight surgeons are always entering hot zones and have to be prepared for things."

Howard Lang said both young men are "very patriotic people with a great sense of duty to the country and a great deal of concern with what's going on. And I think both are respected by their peers."

One of the burdens that Sandy Schroeder must bear is the loss this year of Jerry Schroeder, her husband and Scott's father, and the uncertainty of not knowing where in the world Scott is deployed at any given time. Unlike some other branches of the service, the Special Forces move fast and don't leave forwarding addresses.

Sandy's sense of security derives in main from knowing that her son has had eight years of training and "it's obvious that he's successful at what he's doing.

"Scott is very much into it and he wants to be right where the action is," she said. "He said that this is what he's been trained for and his unit is ready to go."

As Americans have learned since Sept. 11, heroes come in all shapes and sizes. Sandy Schroeder said that her son "was always very quiet, and is to this day.

"No one even imagines what it is that he does," she added. "And if you talk to him, going by his manner, you would never guess."

"During times of peace," said Chris Lang, "I think people kind of lost sight of the purpose of the military. Now the pendulum has swung back and people are really interested in what we do. There is more of an awareness of what our military can do in the past, present and in the future."

Endeavor astronaut from Wauconda

When the space shuttle Endeavor blasted off at 1 p.m. EST on Dec. 7 from Cape Canaveral, Fl., it was under the guidance of a commander with Lake County ties.

Heading the crew of seven astronauts on the 11-day, $600 million mission was Commander Dominic Gorie, a decorated Navy combat pilot who spent his boyhood years in Wauconda, where former classmates and childhood friends are following his space exploits closely.

Long-time friends recall Gorie as a bright, friendly boy who attended Transfiguration School and later Wauconda Junior High.

Before high school, the family moved to Coral Gables, Fla., but friends like Cindi (Francisco) Bilisko still keep track of the Navy officer's exploits.

This was Gorie's third space mission. This flight to deliver a new crew to the International Space Station is a big one, and was designed to be the first ISS utilization flight to rotate science and experiment hardware. It is referred to as Mission UF-1.

A main objective of the mission is to extend a 197-foot long steel, titanium and plastic antenna mast into space, allowing the crew photograph over 70 percent of the earth's terrain in what are expected to be the most accurate ever maps of the planet. The mast will "unfold" cube by cube from the shuttle's cargo bay.

Gorie is well remembered by his old Wauconda School chums. Elizabeth Deasey and Bilisko remember his "always ready" smile. Carrie (Ellis) Nebgen insists there will always be a warm spot in her heart for her eighth grade beau and was flabbergasted when she opened a library book on astronauts and spotted Dominic.

Jennifer (Nolan) Gallivan says he hasn't changed a bit, he's still the same great guy he always was and she knows whereof she speaks. A few years ago she and her husband,Tony, moved to Florida where they were reunited with Commander Gorie, a joyous reunion since Dominic and Tony were best pals in junior high, playing on the same soccer team and even vying for eighth grade presidential honors together.

Jennifer and Tony have enjoyed their renewed relationship with Dominic and have become close friends with his family, wife, Wendy and children, Kimberly and Andrew. The two families share a great deal of time together. The Gallivans have been at all his launches in person.

Gorie went on to receive his BA in Ocean Engineering from the U.S. Naval Academy and his masters in aviation systems from the University of Tennessee. He has received the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Joint Meritorious Service Medal, Air Medal, Space Flight Medal, Navy Commendation Medal for combat, Navy Achievement Medal and Strike Fighter Wing Atlantic Pilot-of-the-year.

Families invited to host recruits in training for Christmas

Members of the local community will once again have the opportunity to host a sailor in boot camp training for Christmas dinner. Recruit training Command, Great Lakes is again sponsoring its annual Christmas Adopt-a-Sailor Program. Reservations are now being taken.

For more than 20 years, recruits away from home for the holidays have been invited to spend the day with families or groups who graciously open their homes and hearts. This year, nearly 2,600 recruits will be available to take advantage of this hospitality.

The Adopt-a-Sailor program is beneficial to recruits as well as the host family. Recruits get to spend time away from the pressures associated with training, enjoy a home cooked meal and relax in a stress-free environment. In turn, the host family gains some measure of satisfaction from making the holiday enjoyable for someone far from home and their loved ones. For some families, hosting recruits for the holidays is as much a family tradition as having turkey for Christmas dinner.

There are some simple requirements for host families or groups. First, for general hosting there is a two recruit minimum. The recruits must stay within a 50-mile radius of Great Lakes.

Recruits must be picked up at the Recruit Training Command between 7 and 8 a.m. for large groups and organizations and between 9 and 10 a.m. for general adoption. Recruits are not allowed to travel on their own. All recruits must return to their assigned barracks by 8 p.m., so they need to be back at Recruit Training Command by 7:30 p.m.

If you wish to participate in this program, contact the Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes Public Affairs Office at 847-688-7837/5670/2405. The deadline for submitting an adoption request is 4 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 19.

Prior to entering the Recruit Training Command main gate, all persons must be on the Adopt-a-Sailor access list and provide proof of identification to security personnel.

Peterson to run for re-election

Cheered on by a crowd of over 450 supporters at his annual fund-raiser brunch, State Senator Bill Peterson announced he will seek re-election to the 26th Senate District. Peterson, who is recognized as one of the most accomplished legislators in the Illinois General Assembly, is seeking his fourth term in the State Senate. The new district map would include a majority of Senator Peterson's existing district and adds several communities in McHenry County as well as half of Barrington Township in Cook County.

Peterson, who is the chairman of the senate revenue committee, sponsored legislation that doubled the individual state income tax exemption. He created the earned income tax credit which is aimed at giving income tax relief to low income families and the Affordable Housing Act.

In addition, he has been honored for his legislative work by Northern Illinois Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse, Omni Youth Services, United Way of Lake County and Countryside Association.

Senator Peterson and his wife, Pat, live in Long Grove.

"These are critical times for blood donations," according to Lifesource spokesman Don Skiba, who adds, "Blood donations tend to go down at this time of year."

Voting district remap set, county candidates wait

By DENYS BUCKSTEN
Community Editor

A new map defining the districts that will make or break political candidates in the March primary elections is ready to go.

The Lake County Board on Dec. 7 approved the version of the map that defines 23 districts through 2012. Also on that day a federal judge approved the county map, which will be used in the March 19 primary elections, but has been opposed by plaintiffs in a federal lawsuit seeking their own version of redistricting.

Plaintiffs in the suit include the Lake County Republicans and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

The latter group represent a huge block of voters in Waukegan, which is about 66 percent Hispanic and are becoming a major factor in Waukegan and county elections.

The redistricting is part of a state-mandated process in which voting districts must be redrawn after the federal census.

Because of the 11th hour legal and political maneuvers, the filing periods for county board candidates will run from Jan. 2 through Jan. 9. The county clerk's office will not allow anyone to file before that time.

Kathy Needham, executive of elections for County Clerk Willard Helander, said that all other office seekers, who began filing on Dec. 10, will be able to file until 5 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 17.

Needham said that on the first day of filing at the clerk's office, with seven filing stations going, the initial rush was over by about 9:30 a.m. Candidates try to be the first to file so that their names will appear first on the ballot, under county balloting procedures.

Needham said that the day before Dec. 7 and the expected county board vote, the clerk's office received numerous calls. Since then, with the clerk's office putting up notices in the court house and on its web site with the updated remap information, calls have been light.

Needham also urged the public to use the website, www.co.lake.il.us/cntyclk, to get information on the filing process and which candidates have filed.

Schulien leaves question about GOP post

Transformation of the Lake County Board, already assured by mandated redistricting, continued into the holiday season with the decision of County Board Rep. John Schulien (R-Libertyville) not to seek re-election next year.

While his decision impacted County Board make-up, left unsaid was whether he'll run again for precinct committeeman, a position he must win in the March primary if he is to retain the non-paid position as Lake County Republican chairman.

Schulien, a practicing dentist until two years ago, has been in public life for 16 years, first as a Libertyville village trustee, and then a County Board representative where he also serves in the dual capacity of Forest Preserve commissioner.

"I offer heartfelt thanks for giving me the opportunity to serve you," Schulien said in a statement.

Schulien's decision not to retain his County Board seat headed off a potential collision with County Board Rep. Mary Beattie (R-Lake Forests). Remapping left them both residents of the same district that will go into effect with election of all 23 County Board members in 2002.

Since entering public service it has been my personal commitment to "do the right thing" even if controversial, and to represent the views of my constituents to the best of my ability. I believe I've been true to these principles and was especially honored when last year I received the "Ethics in Government Award" from the Women's Republican Club of Lake Forest-Lake Bluff joining former Lake County Board chairman James LaBelle and Lt. Governor Corinne Wood.

"I've also felt, as part of that commitment, an obligation to attend to more than the minimum requirements of an elected official.

"A year ago I undertook a new position, leaving my private practice of dentistry to become the facility director at the Ann Kiley Center in Waukegan. As director at this facility, home to almost 300 development disabled adults, I have entered a second profession that also brings me a deep sense of satisfaction. My new position, however, has become a time commitment beyond what was required in my dental practice. By meeting my commitment to the Kiley Center I find I do not have the flexibility to attend to the wide range of County meetings I would like to be part of. An elected official should carefully evaluate their ability to serve when it competes with other employment or interests," he declared in a statement.

Scholarship for historians offered

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The Lakes Region Historical Society, based in Antioch, is offering a new $1,000 scholarship for those studying to be historians or other museum applicable studies.

"We've extended the deadline for this scholarship until the first of the year," said Barbara Beese, secretary of the scholarship committee for the historical society. "We can be a little generous on the return as long as we get some calls about the application."

The scholarship is available to those living within the "defined lakes area" that is bordered by Rte. 120 to the south, Highway 50 in Wisconsin to the north, Rte. 45 to the east and Rte. 47 (that turns into Highway 120 in Wisconsin) to the west.

"This is a new scholarship to the area," said Beese. "We cover a large geographic area and spill into Wisconsin, because many of the items we've collected from farms for the museum spill into Wisconsin."

Brochures are available at both public libraries and from the high school guidance counselors located within the defined area. Beese clarified, "One doesn't have to go to school within this area, but does have to live within this area."

She added, "At this point, those interested in applying may wish to forgo the brochure and just get the scholarship packet. They can call either 838-0564 or 395-1685 to get a scholarship packet."

Beese said the historical society wants to get more applications in for this new scholarship before the interviews commence in February.

"This is one of our really special things at the Lakes Region Historical Society," said Beese. "We want to have this scholarship be ongoing. In the future it will be renewable, and we may have more than $1,000 available down the road."

The winner of the scholarship will be announced next spring, with the money made available to the winner for the fall of 2002.

Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood visits Lake County

Lt. Governor Corinne Wood will present a check for breast and cervical cancer screening grants to the Lake County Health Department. A total of $5.25 million in grants will be awarded to health departments across the state. Lake County will receive $355,000 to expand programs offering free or reduced cost mammograms and other health care services. As a breast cancer survivor and chair of Women's Health Illinois, Lt. Governor Wood has made women's health care a top priority.

The Illinois Breast and Cervical Cancer Screening Program is administered by the Department of Public Health Office of Women's Health and provides mammograms for uninsured or underinsured women with incomes below 200 percent of the federal poverty level.

The IBCCP program began in October of 1995, and since the inception of the program more than 140 cases of cancer have been diagnosed. In FY00, 17,395 screenings were funded through the IBCCP program, with 60 cancer cases diagnosed.

Hispanic seat to change politics

Republicans who were parties of a lawsuit to force creation of a Hispanic district for the Lake County Board are following the national GOP courting America's fastest growing voting bloc.

Hispanic leaders disputed a new district map on the basis that the map based on 2000 U.S. census information violated the federal Voting Rights Act because it failed to create a "super majority" district. The original map left Waukegan's heavy Hispanic population divided among three districts.

At one point a group of county Republicans filed a federal lawsuit alleging that Hispanic voters in Waukegan were disenfranchised. Originally, the new County Board map was essentially the same except for creation of a new Round Lake district and combining Libertyville area and Lake Forest districts.

Nationally, Latinos grew from 2 percent of all voters in the 1980 presidential election to 7 percent of all voters in 2000. Demographers say the number could reach 10 percent in 2004. Of political significance is the fact that Latinos will have parity with African Americans as a share of the national electorate.

Writing in the Weekly Standard, GOP senior advisor Matthew Dowd noted that Illinois 11 percent Hispanic voting age population is one of the states where Latin swing voters will be significant, largely due to an emerging middle class.

GOP strategists in Lake County as well as nationally are intrigued with the possibility of blunting the lock-step Democratic voting pattern of African Americans. For a number of reasons, a Hispanic Lake County Board district is certain to alter the course of local politics.

Caring, sharing marks the season

A generous spirit and a culture of volunteerism are two of the endearing qualities of Lake County life. These two attributes come into sharp focus during the holiday season.

The outpouring of giving money, gifts and time is a silver lining, especially at a time when it is easy to despair over the war on terrorism and less than rosy economic conditions.

Doug Weber, president and CEO of United Way of Lake County, described how charity is more than fund-raising. United Way is one of many organizations that mobilize volunteers, distribute goods, hold trainings and forge partnerships to "make Lake County a better place to live and work."

Lakeland Newspaper reporters provided two close-up looks in recent articles of organizations providing food for needy families. In less than two months, Northern Illinois Food Bank organized and became operational to serve 40 families with distribution of surplus and donated food. Faith Food Pantry overcame the adversity of a tragic fire a year ago to continue providing food to 3,000 persons alone for Thanksgiving.

The two food centers are highly visible examples of similar charitable efforts conducted year around by local churches, civic groups, PADS service for the homeless, Catholic Charities, and the system of general assistance aid meted out by township supervisors as provided for by Illinois statutes.

Time-honored organizations like the Salvation Army are equipped to provide clothing and household needs practically on a moment's notice. A number of churches throughout the county collect used clothing to distribute to those in need.

Lakeland's two articles chronicled the poverty line at 32,205 persons according to the 2000 census, and the current tabulation of needy at 57,000. Whichever figure is used, there's a lot of volunteer effort and giving going into making sure needs are met.

At this time of year and during these troubled times, it's good to know that this community and our neighbors have the manpower, resources and generous spirit to make sure that no one goes hungry or unclothed. That doesn't hold true in all other places elsewhere in America.

VIEWPOINT

Time marching backwards for phones

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

In the dim, dark "prehistoric" past, the telephone company truly was a local business. Grandmas and grandpas can remember when you could put the phone to your ear and a human voice (no kidding) would ask, "number plee-uze."

Yes, there was a time when every community had a telephone office. Living, breathing, "nice" people worked there. The telephone company folks helped form the backbone of our towns, serving on the school board, the chamber of commerce, handling the scout troops, helping run the village council; just about everything to make this area a better place to live. Those were the days of Ma Bell, the friendly, eager-to-please telephone company.

For a long time, though, the mad scientists of the communications industry and their cohorts in the federal government have been working to break down the community, neighborly feeling that local phone service provided. Enter the brave new world of 11-digit dialing.

We will be among the chosen in the 847 dialing area forced to press 1 plus the area code to make a "local" call. As technology marches forward, we'll be punching out 11 digits to call the plumber, talk to the grandkids on the other side of town, or chat with a friend down the street.

For better or worse (guess which), we're getting another call area—224—overlaying the 847 area. When that happens, the grand pooh-bahs of the Federal Communications Commission mandate that 11-digit dialing go into effect to make the system work. Oh. Work? Living in northeastern Illinois, we're the lucky ones.

Wonder if Ma Bell would let this happen. Existing phone users are being shouldered aside to provide number "inventory" for phone companies yet unborn, Internet service providers, cell phone operators and a host of other telecommunications schemes being devised by the mad scientists.

Don't forget, extra dialing will be required beginning Jan. 5. Happy New Year.

Oh for those laid back days of yore when Ma Bell provided excellent service and took care of all our telephone problems. Installations by the afternoon or tomorrow morning for sure. Service problems often corrected within minutes. That was when local service meant something.

There was a time when every community had a telephone identity of its own. Called the local prefix, service advances brought us BAldwin (Grayslake), KImball (Round Lake), ONtario and MAjestic (Waukegan and Gurnee), Fox Lake was JUstice and Wauconda was JAckson. Lake Villa was ELiott. Libertyville and Mundelein had the distinction of having hometown prefixes LIbertyville and MUndelein. Antioch never had a distinctive prefix because of equipment differences.

Local telephone identity hit the skids when letters gave way to numbers. Something to do with automatic switching. Now, as time marches on, it's more numbers than ever.

Don't laugh. The time isn't that far away when we'll be dialing the equivalent of an overseas call to ask the neighbor next door to borrow a cup of sugar.

Oh well, you'll still have the option of banging on the window and hollering. Now, that's local, personal communication.

Demo bias spurs 'political' recession

By Grant D. Noble

It's "official." Six economic professors of the Business Cycle Dating Committee at the National Bureau of Economic Research (NBER) have declared the U.S. economy in a recession since March.

This is the fastest declaration of a recession by the NBER since the July 1981 peak announced Jan. 6, 1982 ("Reaganomics" recession). By contrast, the March 1991 recession bottom was announced Dec. 22, 1992 (safely after Clinton's election).

A further indication of political bias is dating the start of the recession to March 2001. Auto sales peaked February 2000 and fell 16.7 percent by December 2000. The National Association of Purchasing Managers index peaked December 1999 and has shown negative growth since August 2000. Industrial Production peaked in June 2000, inventory ratios have been rising since January 2000 and I could go on and on.

But perhaps the best reason to suspect this "recession" announcement has more to do with politics than economics is how fast the Democrats are using it. It's hard to believe they could have ads out this fast attacking the "Bush Recession" unless they had been tipped off weeks earlier by the NBER professors.

Democrats desperately needed a "Bush Recession" because it's quite obvious their game plan to get back into power is obstruct everything, hope things get worse and then blame everything on Bush and the Republicans.

Most economists agree a recession is the time to cut taxes and not worry about deficits. If bigger government spending and control were the answers, then Soviet Union in the 1980s or Japan in the 1990s should have been economic leaders, not economic disasters. But the Democrat's "solution" is more government spending and to attack the previous Bush tax cut as "causing" the recession (even though it didn't start until July 1, 2001).

Getting oil from our own country instead of the Middle East would be a tremendous boom to our national security and our economy (1 million additional jobs when the effect of lower oil prices is added to construction and oil worker employment). The Democrat leaders of the U.S. Senate are preventing a vote to lift restrictions on U.S. oil exploration and production that already passed the House. They can't

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Fagan candidacy gaining notice

Chuck Fagan's candidacy for sheriff brings into play a number of considerations that added together could make him a potent force to challenge Sheriff Gary Del Re's bid for re-election next year.

The retired deputy sheriff who resides in Ingleside is circulating petitions for nomination as a Democrat.

Fagan held the rank of lieutenant when he retired. Considering the ever present factionalism in a department with more than 200 officers, the Democratic nominee can be expected to have considerable internal support. He'll also benefit from a respectable county ticket and increasing number of Democratic voters in the county.

The interesting part of Fagan's background is that he comes from a Republican family. His father was a GOP precinct committeeman in Shields Township (North Chicago) and his brother-in-law, Ed Fojtik, served as a Republican on the Lake County Board from Grant Township and remains active in GOP politics.

Fojtik was part of the team assembled by then County Chairman Bob Depke to ram through aggressive growth and development policies opposed by independent Republicans. The Depke approach still has some adherents who might be interested in backing an erstwhile Republican as a means of regaining power.

Fagan could be the recipient of such a turn-about.

Beaubien: Westward view occupies time of candidate.

Byrne: Anxious about moving to new village hall.

Brumbach Wondering about future as planning chair.

Plans for spring

There's only a slim chance that Vernon Hills will be able to occupy its glitzy new village hall fronting on Route 45 during the holidays. What Mayor Roger Byrne is certain of is a formal open house dedication next spring.

Refund cash

Tax watchdog and political activist Jack Martin has caught officials of Cook Library District sitting on a mound of cash that he says should be refunded to taxpayers of the district, one of Lake County's 15 public library districts. By Martin's calculations, the district's cash position of $3,383,877 is the equivalent of 9.57 months of cash. Saying the cash is excessive, Martin believes taxpayers are entitled to refunds of $44 to $80 per home with a $200,000 market value. Martin has been battling library officials for years over fiscal policy.

Rios on the mend

Serious injuries sustained in a fall might cause Lucy Rios to sidetrack plans to seek the Democratic nomination for a newly created County Board seat in Waukegan. Rios was getting ready to run before the accident. She is recovering.

Petitions circulated

Jay Ukena, former Lake County Democratic chairman, is circulating petitions for state representative from the new Waukegan-North Chicago district. Ukena maintains law offices in Waukegan. His home currently is in the Wadsworth area, but h e would relocate to meet residence requirements if elected.

Getting acquainted

State Rep. Mark Beaubien (R-Barrington) will find himself representing voters in three counties if current remaping plans prevail. A small portion of Cook County in the revised 52nd District will include the Barrington area. Geographically, the district will be roughly 48 percent in McHenry County. Since the Lake County portion traditionally produces a greater voter turnout, Beaubien believes he'll be in a strong position for re-election. "But I've been working hard to get acquainted with McHenry County voters," Beaubien reported.

Job dilemma

Attending a state workshop on township government, Grant Township Trustee Bill Brumbach was surprised to learn that township trustees cannot serve on township planning committees. Brumbach also is chairman of the Grant Township Planning Commission, a post he held before elected trustee. "The idea is to insure independence of the plan commission, Brumbach stated. He's mulling over whether to give up his planning duties.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rally for Corinne

I'm a loyal Republican woman and it's been hard to sit by while people tear our party apart. Now, they are trying to stop Corinne Wood's run for the office of governor. This is a big mistake. She is the BEST candidate for the office and the Republican Party leaders should rally around her. She is a hard-working woman who will work tirelessly for all Illinois citizens fighting for the needed legislation that both parties have been ignoring for years.

I trust Lt. Governor Wood. She has saved Illinois money by returning unused funds instead of spending every penny and then asking for more. Let's elect a moderate, responsible and independent governor. Illinois needs Corinne Wood now.

Misleading public

On Dec. 4, while at an ill-publicized special township meeting, Warren Township Supervisor Sue Simpson pushed through the approval of a second unnecessary teen center. In fact, the meeting notice was not even placed in the latest township newsletter.

At that meeting, Simpson improperly suggested that it was against the law for the township board to conduct an advisory referendum before developing plans to build the second teen center. The Gurnee village board conducted such an advisory referendum before that board voted to fund the construction of a new aquatic center.

Simpson is simply misleading the public. The relevant Illinois statute (60 ILCS 1/80-80) states: "By a vote of a majority of the township board, the township board may authorize that an advisory question of public policy be placed on the ballot—" Clearly, the township has the power to place an advisory referendum in the exact manner the Gurnee Village Board did for the aquatic center.

Warren Township has one of the highest tax rates in Lake County. Even so, Simpson increased the township tax levy by $214,704 this year alone in anticipation of building the new youth center. This increase is only the first installment in a series of future tax increases. It is the big government of Warren Township that causes high taxes.

Now, without consulting the voters in an advisory referendum, Simpson has increased our taxes to pay for another youth center. A few years back, she did the same thing in building a new township center. Hopefully, someday, Simpson will seek voter's approval before increasing the size of township government and our taxes.

It's beginning to look like Christmas

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

I see our neighbors are decking their halls and homes with boughs of holly and zillions of dazzling lights. Christmas must be coming.

Holy Rudolph, Santa. That was a fast year. A few neighbors (I won't mention names or addresses) left their holiday decorations up the whole 12 months, and that suddenly makes a lot of sense.

We also are guilty, in a way. Last Christmas we bought for near the fireplace an excellent rug with a great picture of Santa delivering gifts to a home. Our Santa rug has been there a whole year and, however tacky that may have been, now it's back in season.

Most people (and all kids) naturally love Christmas, but it can be a lot of work and some folks are glad when it's over. It has been quipped that for people over 30 Thanksgiving comes AFTER Christmas.

The television guides show that about two dozen Christmas movies are coming our way in the next 10 days, most of them more than once. (No other holiday can make that claim.)

The offerings will range from the 1942 classic "Holiday Inn," featuring the singing of Bing Crosby and the dancing of Fred Astaire (classic), to the latest in the long line of remakes of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." This year's remake co-stars Nicolas Cage and Kate Winslet (cool).

So now the Christmas cards are arriving, along with the newest fad, the holiday brag letter telling us about the triumphs and travels our relatives and friends enjoyed during the year 2001.

I must concede that most of those letters from our loved ones and liked ones are full of interesting events and milestones we're happy to hear about.

I have yet to put together a brag letter because my day-to-day drudgery seems to pale by comparison. But I will try again; let me fetch my calendar.

January: Went to the dentist, had my teeth cleaned.

February: Our grandchildren sent us valentines.

March: Our grandson Zachary had his fourth birthday and my brother Earl his 74th!

April: I had some dental surgery. Ouch!

May: We celebrated our grandson Alex's first birthday. Also, our plumber found a dead raccoon in our crawl space and I gave him $100 to drag it out before it began to stink. (Your life should be this exciting!)

June: Played 14 rounds of golf.

July: Played another 14 rounds of golf.

August: Played 15 rounds of golf. (Retirement sure beats working.)

September: The yellow-jacket wasps launched their annual attack but, as the self-appointed West Antioch Wasp Warden, I wiped them out once again. War is nasty, but sometimes necessary.

October: Got the annual flu shot. We're wiping out those little buggers, too!

November: Ashley Wade arrived, a precious little addition to our family. Our third grandchild is the daughter of our daughter Ann and our son-in-law Mike.

December: The month is only half over and something exciting still could happen. But nothing too exciting, I hope.

COMMENTARY

defeat the bill on its merits, but needing to pander to extreme environmentalists and deepen the recession, they stall. The last time the national will was so thwarted by a few well placed zealots was during the filibusters against Civil Rights laws.

According to the Washington Post: "Six months ago President Bush named 11 nominees to federal courts of appeals. "Exactly three—have been confirmed by the Senate. The other eight have not even received hearings from the Senate Judiciary Committee. This would be bad under any circumstances; it's particularly so with more than 100 judgeships vacant and many courts hurting. By year's end, for example, half of the authorized slots on the 6th Circuit will be empty. The D.C. Circuit has four vacancies out of 12. Yet the Senate has moved on nominees to neither court since the president named them in May. The Judiciary Committee chairman Democratic Sen. Patrick Leahy, has offered no reasonable justification for stalling on these nominations."

Even the very liberal Washington Post agrees this is the worst abuse in U.S. history of the Senate's power to "advise and consent" on presidential appointments. Bush's appointments can't be defeated on their merits but to appease ultra liberal pressure groups and embarrass/obstruct the President, no hearings are scheduled, no votes are taken even while the same ultra liberal groups decry the lack of "judicial review" for detained suspected terrorists.

To Patrick Leahy and the other leaders of the Democrat party, I echo the words of Joseph Welch to Senator Joseph McCarthy on June 9, 1954. "You've done enough. Have you no sense of decency, sir?"

Nutrition tips for the holidays

Healthy eating can be a realistic goal during the holiday season. However, achieving any goal requires careful planning. The nutrition department at Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center would like to offer you the following "top ten" tips for healthy, guilt free holidays:

•Be Realistic - The average American gains 6 pounds between Thanksgiving and New Years. Trying to lose weight during the holidays can be an uphill battle! Perhaps, setting your goal to maintain your weight during the holidays would be more realistic.

•Do not arrive at holiday parties hungry! - Nine out of ten individuals will overeat if they skip meals. Our bodies are designed to eat every 4 to 5 hours. Skipping meals to "save calories" for party eating is setting you up for failure. Eat a light meal before a party and you will arrive in control, and actually eat less.

•Make time for exercise during the holidays - Even the best-derived plans leave room for error. Exercise will help burn off some additional calories. However, keep in mind that you have to walk approximately 30 minutes at 4 mph to burn off one small slice of pumpkin pie.

•Limit your alcohol intake to 1 to 2 drinks - Calories from alcohol add up quickly, particularly if you are consuming mixed drinks.

•Be a social butterfly - Holidays are a time to be social. Spend time enjoying others company. The more you talk, the less you will eat! Remember, it is not polite to talk with your mouth full!

• Do not wear loose-fitting clothing during the holidays - Enough said!

•Fill up on vegetables and fruits - Loaded with vitamins, minerals, and disease fighting phytochemicals, while low in calories. The fiber in these foods may help you feel full and leave less room for tempting treats.

• Donate food gifts to a food pantry - Do not even tempt yourself by bringing holiday favorites home.

•Offer to bring a dish to holiday gatherings - If you can, bring a healthy dish with you.

•Lighten up meals that you prepare using some of the following ideas:

• Make a list before grocery shopping. Do not shop when hungry.

•Serve meals on smaller plates.

•If you prepare turkey, choose a plain bird rather than a self-basting bird.

•Remove the skin on turkey before eating.

• Use a gravy cup or refrigerate the pan juices and skim the artery hardening fat off the top before making gravy. This can remove up to 56 grams of fat per cup of gravy!

•When preparing dressing, use a little less bread and add more onions, celery, vegetables, and even fruits such as cranberries and apples.

•When preparing yams, leave out the margarine and marshmallows. Sweeten with fruit juice, such as apple, and flavor with cinnamon.

•When preparing mashed potatoes, use skim milk, garlic powder and a little parmesan cheese instead of whole milk and butter.

Fix a healthy holiday

The holidays are rapidly approaching. The nutritionists at Midwestern Regional Medical Center would like to propose a resolution for your holiday season. Let this be a season to enhance your relationships rather than your waistline! The average American will gain 6 pounds during this holiday season. What better way to show your family and friends how much you care, than to serve them a health enhancing meal that will help them keep those extra pounds off? Let food compliment the holiday experience rather than food being the experience. Why not try a vegetarian holiday? Tofu is always an excellent, fun topic of conversation at the dinner table. Have fun with family and friends discussing how much consideration went into preparing the following special meal for them. As you will see from the recipes that follow, small changes in preparation can add up to savings of hundreds of calories! A small baked turkey can be also be prepared for the faint at heart.

Citrus and Spinach Salad

Tip: Prepare dressing in advance so that flavors can blend.

Dressing

Salad

1/2 cup grapefruit juice
4 cups spinach leaves
2 tablespoons mustard
1 cup mandarin oranges
1/4 cup olive oil
1/2 cup red onion rings
2 tablespoons poppy seeds
2 tablespoons grated onion
1/4 teaspoon salt freshly ground black pepper to taste

1. In a small bowl, combine dressing ingredients. Chill the dressing ahead of time.
2. At serving time, place the salad ingredients in a salad bowl, and toss them with about 1/4 cup of the chilled dressing.

Tofu Loaf

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F.

Mix together in a large bowl:

1 1/2 lbs. Tofu, drained well and mashed
1/3 cup ketchup
1/3 cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1/2 cup fresh parsley
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
1 medium onion, chopped fine
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 cup whole grain bread crumbs
2 egg whites or 1 whole egg

Mix all ingredients together. Put small amount of oil in a loaf pan. Press the mixture into the pan. Bake for about 1 hour. Let cool 10-15 minutes before removing from the pan.

Tofu is an excellent source of protein and contains zero cholesterol. It contains several compounds that may help protect against cancer and heart disease. You can feel good about serving this to all your guests no matter what their special diet needs may be.

Note: Leftover tofu loaf makes excellent sandwiches.

Baked Sweet Potatoes

2 or more sweet potatoes
1/2 cup chopped fresh apricots
1/2 cup apricot juice or nectar
1-2 tablespoons maple syrup

Bake sweet potatoes at 350 degrees F, unpeeled, until tender. Peel after baking. Place in a baking dish and add apricots, juice, and maple syrup. Return to the oven covered and bake another 15 minutes at about 400 F.

Green Bean Casserole

Using fresh or frozen green beans in this recipe, rather than canned will assure optimum nutrient content while reducing sodium content by approximately 120 mgs per serving. In addition, using low fat cream of mushroom soup and skim milk will save approximately 5 grams of fat and 45 calories per serving.

1-pound fresh or frozen green beans
1 can low fat cream of mushroom soup
3/4-cup skim milk
1/8-teaspoon black pepper
2/3 cup dried onion rings; 1/3 cup saved to sprinkle on top of casserole.

Mix all ingredients together. Bake in a baking dish at 350 degrees F for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle with another 1/3 cup dried onion rings. Bake an additional 5 minutes.

"Light" Pumpkin Pie

This recipe saves 150 calories and 12 grams of fat per slice compared to traditional pumpkin pie. It has less than 2 grams of fat per serving! This can also be included into the diabetic diet if counted as 2 carbohydrate servings.

1 cup ginger snaps
16 oz can pumpkin
1/2 cup egg whites (about 4)
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice (cinnamon, ginger, cloves)
12 oz can evaporated skim milk

Preheat oven to 350. Grind cookies in a food processor. Lightly spray a 9" glass pie pan with cooking spray. Pat the cookie crumbs into the pan evenly. Mix the rest of the ingredients in a medium sized mixing bowl. Pour into the crust and bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, about 45 minutes. Store in the refrigerator. Allow to cool and slice in 8 wedges. Serve with fat free whipped cream if desired.

Is old baggage a reason to accept bad behavior?

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

I have a daughter in 2nd grade. Her behavior is pretty bad there and unfortunately, she has been talking to the school Social Worker. Ordinarily I wouldn't have a problem with this, but my daughter tells me that the Social Worker asks my daughter to talk a lot about old problems (i.e. my divorce, old family stress.) In the meantime, she doesn't seem to be requiring my daughter's behavior to get better while doing this. While I understand the idea of talking out feelings, these things are really old news for our family and my daughter is sinking deeper and deeper into this old stuff, while her behavior is not improving at all. The last straw happened the other day when my daughter came home with another bad behavior report and when I asked her about it, she looked me right in the face and told me that her behavior is "due to her family stress." These are not her words. I don't think her behavior is about these stresses since these things happened when she was 4 and her bad behavior just started this year and only in school- never at home. We have no current stress. Everything is really great at home. Do all therapists drudge up this old stuff and does my daughter have to see this therapist if I don't want her to? A.O.

Dear A.O.

Some therapists do and some don't. While I believe this Social Worker is doing this because she feels it is the right thing to do for your child, I happen to totally disagree with that type of approach for the reasons you have brought up plus more. Now, this does not mean that the therapist is doing anything wrong. She is working according to her training. She may be doing something that you disagree with, in which case, you would need to take that up with her. Hopefully she will consult with you and begin to focus more on some other things. If not, you may need to take it to higher staff members at the school.

The fact that your problems with your daughter's behavior have started up this year, so long after the stress in the family, and the fact that the problem is isolated to school make me more suspicious of processing problems and frustration, than old emotional issues. I have seen a lot of kids with this type of presenting symptom and 9 out of 10 times it turns out that they are just starting to feel lost in school and get frustrated and then act out. I believe that, more likely, something at school is setting her off. If it is processing, the problem will not get better until that is looked at and worked with. All the talking in the world won't help that. If it is something else, that needs to be investigated, but I don't believe that old emotional issues are going to get you there.

My problem with this type of therapy is this: I think too many people today believe that the way to get over problems is to dwell on talking about them, analyze them to death, go back in time and pick out all the little details and nuances of them. I have always felt this to be wrong. I believe that our reality is what we focus on. In other words, our focus becomes our reality. If our focus is to constantly be bringing up old baggage, that will become our reality. If we keep repeating patterns based on bringing up old baggage, that becomes our reality. I also believe that what we repeat over and over again becomes permanent and our everyday behavior.

Adding these two things up, if anyone continues to keep focusing on all the bad things happening in their life or all of the bad things that used to happen in their life or what a failure they feel like because of those bad things, they are making sure to keep those awful self-defeating feelings alive, well and practiced to perfection. This translates into self-defeating behaviors and happens in both kids and adults.

Now, don't get me wrong here. I do not mean to say that I would ignore important events that have occurred in someone's life to make them who they are today. I also believe that therapy is a good place to talk about feelings. I simply believe that it is a better use of time to use that information for the purpose of focusing on breaking the current patterns that built up out of that material rather than continuing to focus on the material itself. In other words, not sinking into the past so deeply that we are living there again, but using the past to learn for the present and future. Also, not sinking into present problems so deeply that it is all we can see. Rather, focusing on building and practicing the correct patterns instead so that the negative can go away. That is where the true healing comes from, in my opinion.

Another important reason I feel this is the following: the world still expects you to behave appropriately regardless of your situation or your feelings. Putting it quite bluntly...the world doesn't care about any of our baggage. It goes on anyway. I realize this sounds callous, but it is true. When I work with parents on their kids behavior, I tell them that even though the child may have stress in their lives or past stress, the child needs to learn patterns of good behavior anyway. The most dangerous thing anyone can teach a child is that his or her behavior is due to some external force or some stressful situation. Teach that to your child enough times and your child will become an adult who believes that and blames everything and everyone for his or her problems.

Imagine this trait when your child is an adult and in the job world! Built in excuses are never a good thing to teach kids. Again, I do not say this to make you ignore feelings. Just to make sure people understand that my way of doing things usually involves teaching and expecting the good behavior patterns in spite of what is occurring in the child's life.

First, teaching and expecting responsibility for self. Certainly, once that is attained, talking about feelings is very good. If you reverse those, you end up accepting horrible behavior in the name of talking about feelings. Again, teaching a very bad message.

Again, just so I am read loud and clear...talking about feelings is a good thing, but should never replace responsibility for behavior.

Drudging up and dwelling on old or new baggage to cure a problem just makes no sense to me unless the old / new material is only being focused on as learning material for the present and future to break bad patterns, while appropriate behavior is expected.

Now, you may not be telling me all of what the school Social Worker is doing and your daughter may not be telling you all of it. She may also be trying to work with stopping the bad behavior. You need to investigate this further before you react. If you are not happy with the therapy occurring in school, my suggestion to you is that you go private and work with someone who is more along the lines of your philosophy. As long as you are working to correct the problem, the school should be o.k. with it. It sounds like you have your "head on pretty straight" so I'm sure you will do what is right for this child. If you are interested in finding out more about my services for this, you can call my voicemail back again and I can get back to you.

A tomato a day keeps the oncologist away.

That may not be entirely true but it is true that tomatoes, along with many other foods, have been proven to have cancer fighting properties.

In fact, studies have shown that just five servings of fruits and vegetables daily can prevent as much as 20 percent of all cancers. The cancer fighting benefits of proper nutrition apply to those who have been diagnosed and treated for cancer as well.

But keeping proper nutritional habits can be very complicated, especially when challenged with the rigors of traditional cancer treatment. If you add in complications from an unhealthy liver, renal system, or diabetes, the proper roadmap for nutrition gets even a little more gray.

That is why consulting a nutritionist can be just what the doctor ordered. Your one-hour consultation is a phone call away. Don't replace -- Refinish and restore for a beautiful bathroom

Most of us wander into the bathroom in the morning, bleary-eyed, only to be jolted awake at the sight of a pea-green tub, a mustard-yellow sink or hot pink tiles -- obviously, decorating disasters of past decades gone awry.

Bathroom remodeling can be costly, but there's no need to live with old or ugly fixtures any longer. If the surfaces are made of porcelain, ceramic tile, fiberglass, acrylic, cultured marble or laminate, you can now update your bathroom without replacing the tub, sink or tiles.

With over 100 U.S. locations, Miracle Method has refined the restoration process that makes surfaces "new" again. Their proprietary bonding process eliminates the need for dangerous, corrosive acids often used by other refinishers. Established over 20 years ago, Miracle Method has refinished surfaces for some of the world's most well known companies, including Marriott, Hilton, Holiday Inn and Jacuzzi.

"The key to a good refinishing job is the process of cleaning, preparing and bonding. These are the most important steps in order for the new finish to stick to the old surface. Miracle Method's success is directly related to our proprietary bonding agent that we have used for the past 20 years," says Chuck Pistor, president of Miracle Method.

Many people believe that they have no option but to replace their tub, tile or counter. One homeowner from Portland, Ore., explains, "Initially we were unaware that our old, dull tub could be refinished. We chose Miracle Method on the recommendation from an employee of a local bathroom supply company. We were most impressed by the smooth, bright finish of the renovated tub and by the careful, enthusiastic attitude of the technician as he explained the process to us."

Why Refinish?

Money

If you want a new look for your bathroom, but don't want to spend thousands of dollars remodeling, then refinishing is your best value. Replacing the bathtub alone can cost as much as $3,000. With refinishing, you only pay a small fraction (as little as 10%) of the cost of replacement. And anyone who has ever replaced the tiles or sink in their bathroom knows the mess and hassle of demolition, as well as the hole it can put in their wallet.

Time

Refinishing a tub can take as little as 4 hours. You can shower or bathe the very next day. Replacing a tub, however, can take weeks, when you factor in the time to rip out your old tub, install a new one, let caulking dry, and readjust or replace plumbing. With many homes having only one bathtub, weeks of delay are not affordable, practical nor convenient.

Durability

Refinished tubs or ceramic tiles can easily last 15 to 20 years or more with proper maintenance. A new porcelain bathtub may last a few years longer, but the cost of replacement is nearly triple what it would cost to refinish. Not only is refinishing more cost-effective, but refinishers are also able to provide extras, such as slip-resistant surfaces and custom colors.

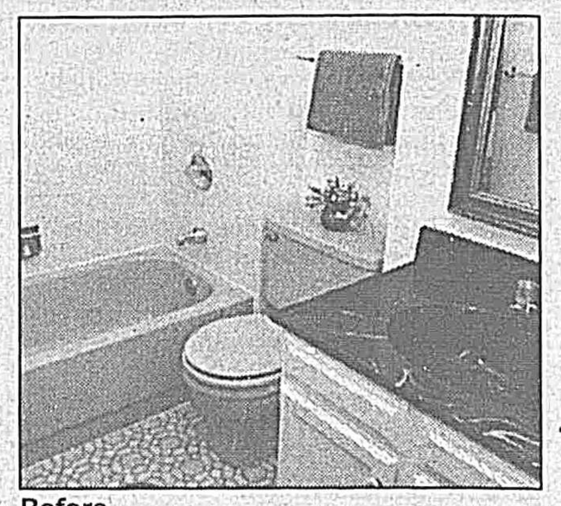

Judith from Easthampton, Mass., is still satisfied with the look and feel of her refinished tub. "It's been approximately 14 years -- my tub still looks good and is easy to clean. Before refinishing it was pitted, porous and impossible to clean." Refinishing is also great for repairing small chips and cracks, making it ideal for fixtures that are otherwise in good condition. Professional restoration companies like Miracle Method guarantee their work, so be sure to ask about warranties when shopping for a refinisher.

Aesthetics

Because refinishing can match nearly any color, you can change that pea-green tub to a color you really like -- even white. Since most of us have purchased previously owned homes that were decorated according to someone else's preferences, it's probably not exactly the way you'd like it to be. Now you can change that 1970s color scheme in just a few hours. And at a savings of up to 90 percent of the cost of replacement, it's a hard value to beat. Not only will your bathtub look great, but it will also feel silky smooth!

When looking for the right refinisher for your bathroom-remodeling project, remember to do a little research. "Refinishing is a great process if it is done with the right materials and techniques, but all refinishing is not the same so be sure to ask the right questions. Ask how long the company has been in business and ask for references," says Chuck Pistor.

Library not limited to expensive homes

It's the perfect quiet place. A home library offers space to read, relax, work or study. And it's no longer an option only for the ultra-wealthy.

At a suburban townhomes development, a small library is the first floor focal point. Replete with built-in bookshelves and cabinets, the 1,805-square-foot home incorporates the centrally located library into the primary living space. The base price is $155,900.

"Our philosophy is to offer our buyers the products and design changes that will personalize their home," said Pam Schawel, Wiseman-Hughes Enterprises director of sales and marketing. "Lately, they've been asking for computer niches and private retreats. The library is a very upscale feature that accommodates both personal and professional needs while satisfying buyers' taste for luxury."

The desire for peace and quiet drove Heffernan Builders to design the spacious, grand library in their newest 4,500-square-foot model at B&B Enterprises' Fox Mill custom community in St. Charles. The Colonial-style home is priced at $569,900.

"The library is at the front of the home, but because of the t-staircase layout in the foyer, the room has a private feel to it," said Bonnie Heffernan, the builder's president.

The Heffernan library has custom floor-to-ceiling oak bookcases, oak flooring and trim, and three-piece oak crown moulding. Two large windows and French doors enhance the room with natural light.

"This inviting room quickly becomes the 'quiet zone' in a lively household," said Heffernan.

HOROSCOPE

Aries – March 21/April 20—Start forgiving yourself for past mistakes. Remember an open mind means seeing more than your side. Talk is cheap, but that doesn't stop you from ranting at work on Wednesday. A heart-to-heart discussion will help put romantic differences into perspective this weekend!

Taurus – April 21/May 21—Don't let holiday spending get out of hand. Giving is one thing, but extravagance is another. Stop spending needlessly. A Gemini gives you good advice Monday. Take it. And, don't let your stubbornness get in the way of asking questions. Good news comes Tuesday when finances take a turn for the better.

Gemini – May 22/June 21—Take time off for a very early spring-cleaning. Go through closets, files and piles of paper, and throw out any unwanted clutter. It's time to make room for new things. Is that Capricorn flirting with you at work? Yes. Fight the urge to rush it. Things have a way of flourishing on their own.

Cancer – June 22/July 22—Find time for your favorite hobbies this week. Practice them, and turn them into the art they were intended to be. Need a break? A Libra invites you to do something out of the ordinary by the end of the week. Don't be afraid to try something new. You will find a new side of yourself when you open up.

Leo – July 23/August 23—Put exercise back in your schedule this week. If discipline's the problem, solve it with creativity. Try something new like karate or yoga? A Scorpio notices your new-found confidence Friday. Do what you do best. Flaunt it. A work opportunity comes your way.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22—Your indecision is driving a Cancer at home crazy. You're not being fair to the crab. Make a list of priorities of things you need, and pursue them. Start putting some responsibility back on yourself and taking the burden off of others, like family members who come to the rescue. Don't know where to begin? Communication is key.

Libra – Sept 23/Oct 23—Whether it's a vacation, a business trip or some personal space you're taking, don't leave your partner far behind. Romance is as rocky as ever, and you really need to learn when it's best to hang in there and when it's time to call it quits.

Scorpio – Oct 24/Nov 22—Why does it always seem like two steps forward, three steps back where your career is concerned? Because you never ask for more. Practice being assertive on the job this week. A boss lets you know of a good opportunity on Monday, which calls for lots of creativity.

Sagittarius – Nov 23/Dec 21—A hectic holiday schedule may need some adjustments. Stop making appointments you don't intend to keep. A Leo friend is annoyed with empty promises. A well-deserved day off on Thursday gives you time to collect your thoughts and figure out what you want.

Capricorn – Dec 22/Jan 20—Well now Capricorn, letting go has never been your strong point, but your love life is becoming more like a full season of television reruns. Stop playing the "been-there-done-that" role, and start making some new beginnings. Tell your old flame to take a hike and look for new horizons with someone else.

Aquarius – Jan 21/Feb 18—Don't let holiday stress cloud career goals. That dream job is just beyond your fingertips, but not far beyond your grasp. Do what it takes to make it happen. Be aggressive. Exercise activities are great stress relievers. Try your hand at something new over the weekend.

Pisces – Feb 19/March 20
An upcoming family function could be the cause of stress this week. A compromise will have to be met before feelings are hurt. Give a little, but don't let yourself get taken advantage of. Children are the focus of the weekend. Throw a party and act like one of the little ones.

Better than ever

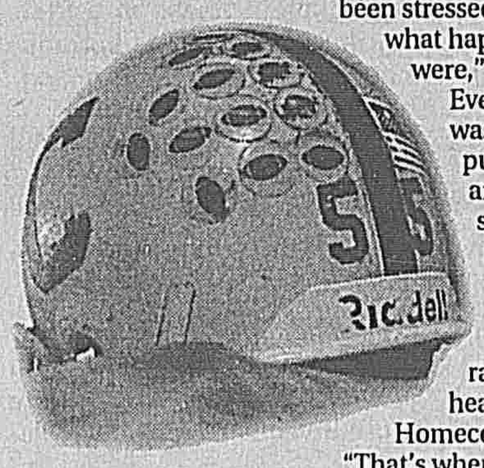

Carmel's football team goes farther than ever in state playoffs, team, individuals set host of school records in the process

By MARC JENKINS
Staff Reporter

For head coach Andy Bitto, the defining moment of his team's historic 2001 season came on Sept. 14 against Bishop McNamara.

It was only three days after the terrorist attacks on our country. The Corsairs—many with that on their minds—traveled 100 miles south to Kankakee by bus to take on the Mighty Macs on a Friday night.

"You wouldn't think that high school kids would have been stressed out so much about what happened, but they were," Bitto said.

Even though the score was close, Carmel pulled ahead for good and won 28-20 as senior QB Matt Roe ran for two touchdowns and Eric Luna added another score as the Corsairs ran their record to 4-0 heading into Homecoming.

"That's when I knew this year would be special," Bitto said. "I knew that we would make good on our goals."

Bitto laid out four attainable preseason goals for his team and here's how they fared.

• Beat Lake Forest—The Corsairs knocked off the Scouts 35-7 in the first game of the season.

• Win conference—Although went into the fourth quarter with a 19-14 lead, Joliet Catholic dashed the Corsair's hopes of a conference title, beating Carmel 28-25. But Bitto discovered another offensive weapon in sophomore running back Brandon Ziemann, who rushed for 90 yards on three carries, including a 43-yard gallop for a touchdown.

• Win 10 games—Carmel didn't win 10 games this year. They won a school-record 11 , breaking the old record of nine wins—set last year when the Corsairs went 9-5.

• Make the semifinals in the state playoffs—They did just that, but lost to Richards on the road in a heart-breaking 10-0 loss to end the season in south suburban Oak Lawn.

"To be honest, I thought we could win state," Bitto said. "I'll tell you something about this year, it made the barometer jump for next year."

Take the return of 11 sophomore and junior starters and many others who saw significant playing time and combine it with a sophomore team that went 8-1—despite having its seven best players called up to the varsity—2002 promises to be something even more special for the Corsairs.

"We have 65 players that are already lifting weights for next year," Bitto said. "You don't know how precious a state championship is, until you get that close to it.

"I expect us to win state next year."

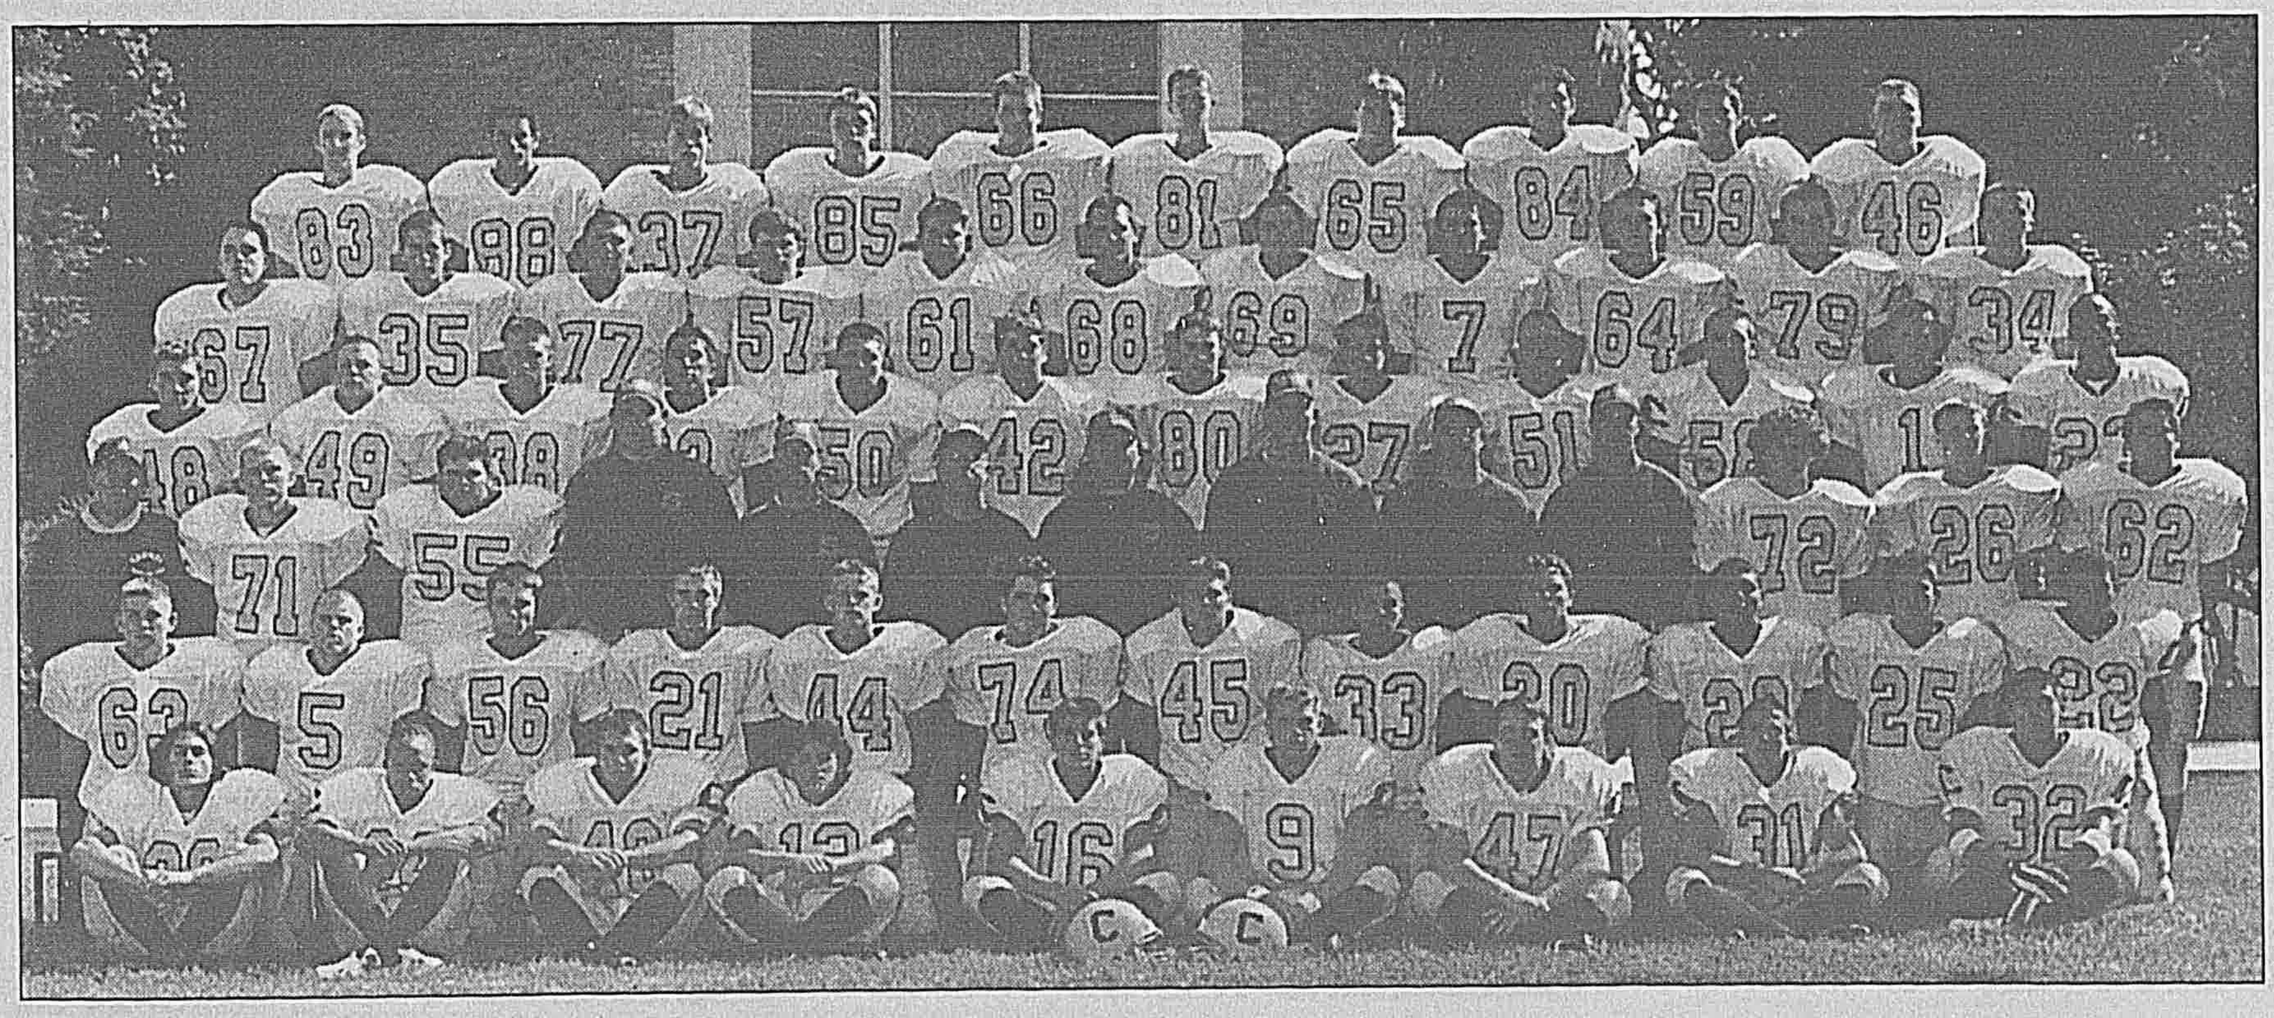

Bitto never has had a problem getting his players to live up to his lofty goals. Roe set a school record for all-purpose yards (season and career), most career touchdowns, most points scored, two-point conversions and most yards passing in a career.

Senior running back Eric Luna also set four records most yards rushing, most touchdowns, most points (all in a season) and career rushing yards.

Bitto knows how to get his players fired up before and during games and how to get the most out of his team.

"It didn't matter whether or not I screamed and yelled," Bitto said. "If I told them I liked peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, they would have knocked me over to get on the field."

1980 seniors helped set stage for historic 2001 season

Looking back 21 years at the 1980 Corsairs

An unlikely combination, a Jewish coach and a Catholic high school, came together to produce a team known for heartbreak finishes.

But for a few bad bounces and a St. Viator desperation pass with 14 seconds to go, the Carmel Corsairs of 1980 could have finished 8-1 or 7-2.

What the 1980 team accomplished was establishing a taste for victory that contributed to a winning tradition to help set the stage for Carmel High School's 10-2, state tournament team of 2001, arguably Lake County's best ever high school football team.

One of the stars of the 1980 team, winners of four out of nine games, was a high spirited, hard-nosed running back, Andy Bitto, who would play collegiately at Ball State, also played linebacker. Twenty-one years later Bitto coached the Carmel Corsairs to their notable season and a berth in the state finals.

The 1980 season started on a sour note. Seniors, used to winning as freshmen and sophomores, were dispirited after sitting on the bench in 1979, watching the seniors log another losing season.

A faculty change left the Corsairs without a varsity football coach for '80. A stop-gap, fill-in turned out to have doubts about meshing with a parochial school because of his Jewish heritage.

With fall practice about to begin, Jerry Jacobsen signed on as Carmel's first non-Catholic varsity football coach, following in the footsteps of such luminaries as Angelo Daberio, who earned All-American honors at Notre Dame.

Known as a motivator, besides being a capable football tactician, Jacobsen sized-up his job in a hurry. He had to convince the disgruntled juniors that they would have an opportunity to play as seniors.

Before fall drills began, Jacobsen scheduled personal interviews with the talented seniors, who had 12 games, losing out five times as underclassmen.

Jacobsen's strategy of firing up the uncertain seniors paid big dividends. In less than a week—only days before fall practice was scheduled to begin, Jacobsen had assembled the nucleus of the senior-dominated team that two months later would compile Carmel's first winning varsity football season.

Jacobsen quickly realized that he had the makings of a winning team. He would employ a balanced attack, built the running of Bitto and two-way player. Future Augustana All-American Joe Wheeler and the arm of quarterback, Kevin Grampo. For defense, he would teach fast learners, the techniques needed to handle bigger and heavier rivals the Corsairs perennially faced in the highly competitive Chicago suburban leagues.

Coach Bitto was the only member of the 1980 team to stay with football. Wheeler became an all-time Division III star at Augustana, winning three national championship rings, one as a graduate coach. He now resides in Crystal Lake where he operates a medical supply business.

Bitto was a starting fullback for four years at Ball State. He was involved in sales positions after graduation, but eventually returned to Carmel and coaching.

Grampo, considered a dangerous passer, had two principal targets, Jeff Hutchinson, a lanky wideout with glue fingers, and burly Rob Borham, who distinguished himself as a pitcher at Southern Illinois University. Hutchinson is a school teacher and Borham is a American Airlines captain, flying trans-Atlantic routes. Grampo now is a police officer in Vernon Hills.

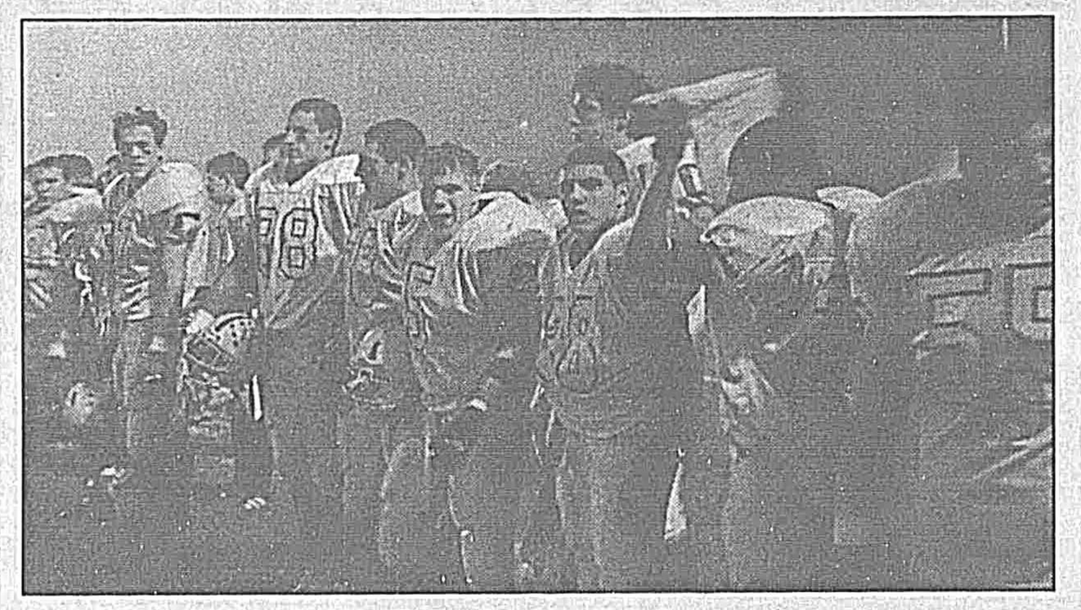

Playing side-by-side on the offensive line were Steve Boehm, a rotund but speedy tackle, and Bill Schroeder, center, who played all of 30 seconds as a junior while varsity seniors stumbled to a disappointing 3-6 season. Today, Boehm is a businessman in Minnesota, and Schroeder is an executive with a publishing firm in Ft. Worth, Tex.

Ralph DePasquale, an agile and ball-hawking special teams player, is a successful commercial real estate broker and resides in Long Lake. Jay McDonald, a defensive specialist, played college football at the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse.

The unlucky 1980 team landed seven all-conference selections and was sought by college scouts from as far away as the eastern Ivy League schools.

Trounced in only one game, by always powerful Marist, the 1980 Corsairs proved that narrow high school football losses could be motivational forces for success alter in life.

A LOOK BACK-1986-87

Fitzgibbons brings new attitude; sets pace for future success

By BOB SCHROEDER
General Manager

The 1987 Carmel varsity football team poses for their annual photo. Led by running back Donald Foster on offense and Chris Drew on defense, the '87 Corsairs finished 5-4 overall and 4-3 in the east Suburban Catholic Conference.—Photo courtesy of Carmel High School.

The year was 1985. Carmel varsity football had just finished another disappointing season, and a change needed to be made. The heroic efforts of Chuck Foy and Rod Whittier at running back weren't enough to lead the Corsairs to a winning season, although Rod would play a major role in assisting the basketball team to a second consecutive Sweet 16 appearance in the playoffs later that season.

The junior and sophomores had multiple East Suburban Catholic Conference championships between them on the freshman and sophomore levels. The talent and success of those teams when combined on the varsity level should translate into a winning program. So expectations were high.

Enter Michael Fitzgibbons, the coach of the sophomore team, promoted to the varsity level, and a person who had first-hand knowledge of the personnel and talent level of those teams. Fitzgibbons, a dedicated student of the game, was a master motivator who knew how to inspire a team and get the most out of his players.

His move to the varsity level brought a new level of player commitment in the weight room, and increased attendance during summer passing leagues and workouts. The new commitment was also evident with a coaching staff that worked tirelessly to prepare the players for battle.

The "new" varsity players carried an attitude of, "we had success before, we can have success again. We're playing the same schools that we beat before, we can win again."

Joe Pudlo, a former Corsair quarterback, coached the '86 and '87 teams on offense in the late 70s. Defensive coordinator was Andy Bitto, and had one common trait: a stingy defense.

1986 Campaign

The focus and mindset of the team was set on making the playoffs, a first for a Corsair football team in the 21 year history of the school. Being competitive wasn't good enough anymore; the team must get to the next level.

Practices were more intense, including more contact and conditioning drills. Coaches reminded players daily about playing on Wednesdays, the first day of playoff action.

The offense was led by a running attack involving Sr. Kurt Hines and junior Donnel Foster. They had great success behind a big and experienced line led by Mike Reitz, Mike Mudd and Air Force bound Ken Godwin.

The defense was led by linebacker Dave Goshgarian, safety Mike Graham, who laid a "deadening" tackle on Mike McManus, stopping the standout player from St. Viator on a fourth down trick play to keep the Corsairs in a crucial game. Jeff Zgonina, a junior, also stepped up to provide a valuable pass rush and helped stop opponents' running game. Zgonina also started to get attention from Division I school scouts.

The season started with a rudimentary win over Waukegan East. Foster established himself as a bonafide running back, rushing through the line on dive plays, and utilized his speed past opponents on sweep plays.

The two key games of the season were against Marist and St. Viator. Both games were low scoring affairs, with Carmel coming up short on both. The defense proved up to the task, holding the ESCC perennial powers at bay. Unfortunately for the Corsairs, the offense had trouble moving the ball. The offense stalled, not able to run the ball, and the playoffs would escape the team.

Fitzgibbons would lead the '86 team to a 5-4 record with victories over Waukegan East, Notre Dame, St. Joseph, Holy Cross and Woodstock. The tides had turned, progress was made, and Carmel football had a winning campaign for the first time in years.

1987 Campaign

The '87 team was hurt by graduation. Disappointed by not making the playoffs, the squad pushed themselves harder to have more success on the field. The players focussed their attention on playing on Wednesday for the playoffs.

Top returnees on offense included Foster and Reitz. Junior Thad Suttter came on as the new QB and proved to be effective. Junior Steve Brock helped clear the way for Foster, a future Illinois State Redbird, to run through as the team's fullback. Senior Rob Kosear caught many passes at the tight end position, as well as helping clear the way for the rush-dominating offense.

The defense dominated opposing teams led by senior middle linebacker Chris Drew, a future Ohio University gridiron player, who was the inspirational leader of the defense. The defense received a boost from Guy Bolio, a former Wisconsin Badger linebacker who helped coach that position at Carmel. Also making major contributions were Purdue University bound and St. Louis Ram Jeff Zgonina, future Illinois bound tackle Randy Bierman, outside linebacker Mike Maciag, junior middle linebacker Steve Brock, and talented sophomore safety Matt Simmons. The defense also excelled in special teams play while knocking opponents around, even returning a couple of punts for touchdowns.

The 1988 team's downfall was not being able to put away the Woodstock team in the second game. After jumping out to an early lead, thanks in part from an interception from junior Randy Splitt, the offense went flat, and the defense relaxed. This game would turn out to be especially critical after the Corsairs finished with a 5-4 record.

The '87 squad turned out to be the first team in Carmel's history to have a winning season every year of their four-year prep careers. Victories over Waukegan, Notre Dame, Holy Cross, St. Joseph, and for the first time in Carmel's history, St. Viator, ensured a winning record.

Coach Fitzgibbons had the beginnings of program that was on the winning track. The playoffs had eluded the '86 and '87 team, but the following year, Fitzgibbons would get his first chance to play on Wednesday.

Carmel's Road to the Final Four

Win or lose, every game was memorable in Carmel's record-setting 11-2 season. The 2001 campaign featured eight and three-game win streaks that were abruptly ended in heart-breaking fashion. Here's a blow-by-blow recap of the season.

Game 1
Carmel 35, Lake Forest 7

Carmel came out with a strong passing attack as quarterback Matt Roe was 10-for-16 with 141 yards and two touchdowns to Sean Walker and jack Simmons. Roe also added a late rushing touchdown to ice the win.

Pat Adrien carried the load on the ground as he had 127 yards, including a 74-yard TD run as the Corsairs dominated the entire game.

Game 2
Carmel 47, Gordon Tech 7

The Corsairs once again featured a balanced between the pass and the run in the 40-point trouncing of the Rams.

Roe rushed for two TDs and threw another in amassing 190 total yards.

Eric Luna led the team in rushing with 140 yards and a touchdown while Adrien chipped in with 66 rushing yards, including a 1-yard score, and an 82-yard kickoff return for a touchdown. Simmons added 70 yards and a score to pace Carmel in receiving.

Game 3
Carmel 31, Marian Catholic 3

Despite the lop-sided final score, the game was in doubt through most of the contest.

Carmel was up just 6-3 at the half and 15-3 after the third quarter but 70 and 78-yard TD runs from Luna (18 carries, 261 yards) broke Marian's back in the fourth quarter.

Roe chipped in with two touchdowns (one rushing, one passing) as the Corsairs ran wild over Marian to the tune of 344 yards rushing.

Game 4
Carmel 28, Bishop McNamara 20

In the closest game to this point in the season, two TD runs from Roe and a TD run from Luna (24 carries, 137 yards) led the Corsairs to a win over the Mighty Macs.

Game 5 (Homecoming)
Carmel 49, Notre Dame 13

Carmel scored on its first play from scrimmage, a 79-yard pass from Roe to Walker, to give the Corsairs a 7-0 lead. Three minutes later, Luna (13 carries, 160 yards, 4 TDs) added a touchdown and Carmel never looked back.

Roe (11 carries, 101 yards) would later add two TDs of his own as the Corsairs gained nearly 300 yards rushing on the night.

Game 6
Carmel 56, St. Patrick's 28

Carmel fell one point short of setting the school record as Roe had three first-half touchdowns while Luna added three second-half touchdowns for the Corsairs.

Game 7
Carmel 44, Marist 17

Luna had another big game (19 carries, 241 yards, 4 TDs) as the Corsairs avenged a 17-7 loss at the hands of Marist in 2000.

The other big story was Carmel's defense, which recovered four fumbles and picked off a pass, led by Walker, a new addition to the defensive unit. Walker had six tackles, two forced fumbles and two fumble recoveries, one of which he returned 27 yards for a touchdown.

Game 8
Carmel 42, Benet Academy 0

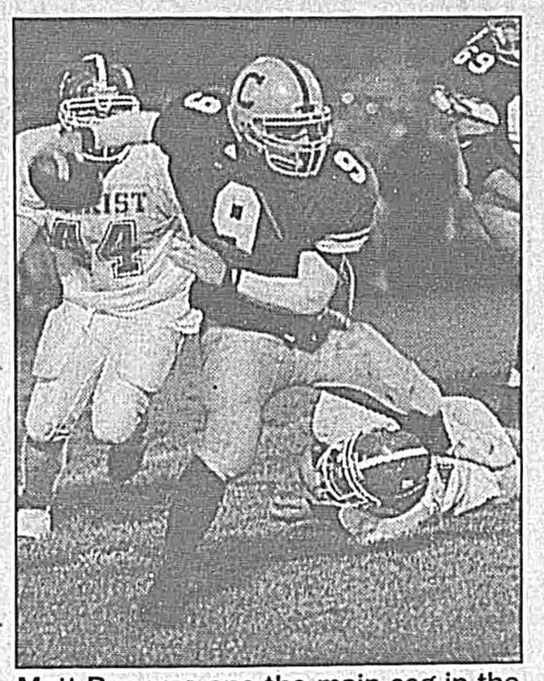

Despite heavy winds, a torrential downpour and a mud pit for a field, the Corsairs had arguably their most dominant performance of the season.

Roe led the team with 11 carries for 148 yards, including a 73-yard TD run and Luna contributed 56 yards on 15 carries and two TDs as Carmel rushed for 293 yards in the game.

Game 9
Joliet Catholic 28, Carmel 25

Carmel's unbeaten season came to an end at the hands of the Hilltoppers in a memorable game.

The Corsairs led for much of the game, thanks to the efforts of sophomore tailback Brandon Ziemann who had 90 yards on just three carries including a 54-yard run and a 43-yard TD run and Dexter Reid who picked off three first-half passes.

Roe also added a 2-yard TD run but the other half of the option tandem, Luna, was held to just 60 yards on 21 carries.

Carmel went into the final quarter up 19-14 but two long Joliet Catholic touchdown drives put the Hilltoppers up to stay.

Game 10
(first-round, 6A playoffs)
Carmel 42, LaSalle-Peru 19

Luna led the team with 208 yards rushing and two touchdowns which put him over the 1,400 yard mark on the season and Roe completed nine of 13 passes for 144 yards and three scores and also added a 1-yard TD run for the Corsairs.

Game 11 (second-round)
Carmel 35, Rockford Boylan 7

Adrien too k the opening kickoff 97 yards to the house as Carmel jumped out to a 7-0 lead. He would later add a 19-yard TD run in the third quarter to complete the scoring.

Ziemann broke an 85-yard run off-tackle for a TD run the first quarter and Luna (14 carries, 74 yards) and Roe also added TD runs for the Corsairs.

Game 12 (quarterfinals)
Carmel 34, Normal 21

The Corsairs secured their first-ever trip to the semifinals with a second half explosion against Normal.

Carmel was down 14-12 at the half, the first time they had trailed at the half all season but responded by outscoring the Ironmen 22-9 in the second half.

Luna and Adrien each had long TD runs in the win.

Game 13 (semifinals)
Richards 10, Carmel 0

Heavy fog and winds and missed opportunities were the story in a loss that ended Carmel's season.

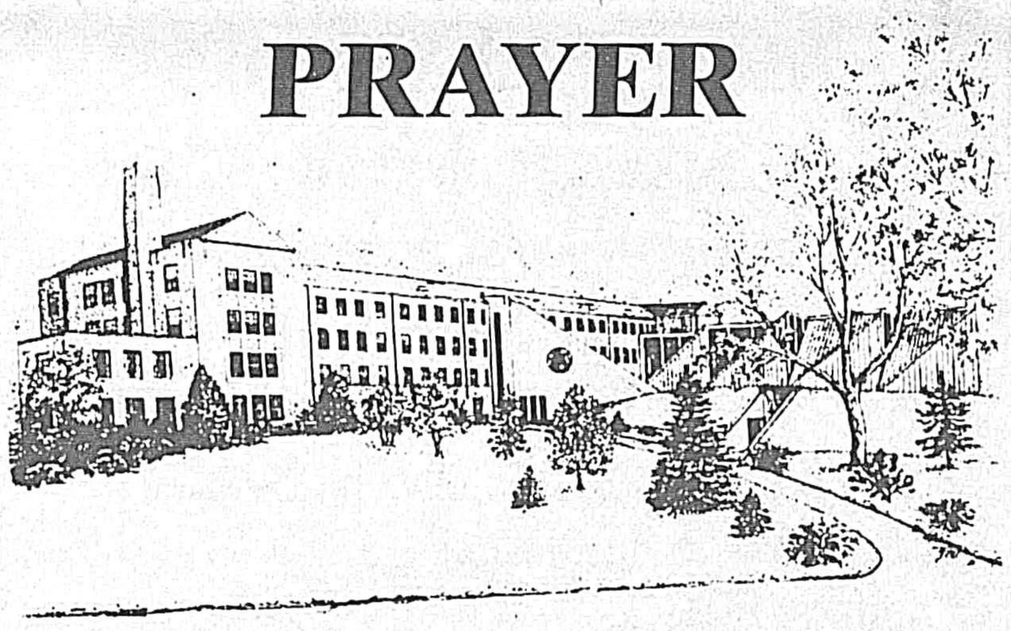

The Corsairs had little opportunity moving the ball between the 20's but once Carmel reached the red-zone their offense stagnated. Six turnovers, including a fumble that Richards recovered in Carmel's end zone for the only touchdown of the game doomed the Corsairs.—Rob Backus

At your service

Football wasn't the only thing fans enjoyed at Carmel this season. The concession stand was a popular place with hospitality and plenty of good eats. The menu is pretty diverse, from hog dogs, chili dogs, hamburgers, cheeseburgers, Italian beef sandwiches and various pop and candy, to name a few. Above, volunteers Mary Ann Bolard, Mary Malia and David Weick provide service with a smile. All three are parents of Carmel students.—Photo by Candace H. Johnson

Shoenberger, Carmel find niche together

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

After tearing ligaments in his knee, Carmel's Kris Schoenberger had to bypass his freshman football season.

But he still wanted to be a part of it.

"I wanted to stay a part of the team. Plus, I like keeping busy and helping out any way I can."

And if any football fan got a glimpse of the sparkling presentation of Carmel's varsity football field, they have Schoenberger, or Showie, to thank.

"I joined the service club at school my freshman year," said Showie, a Round Lake Beach native. "It's a program where you do things to help the school. I currently have over 2,000 hours so far in my four years. My goal is over 2,500. Working on the football field helped give me a sense of accomplishment."

With the help of best friends Brad Verenski and David Michael, the Carmel football field has never looked better.

"It was rough when I started," recalled Showie. "My freshman year, I asked Coach (Andy) Bitto if I could help with the field. I started by painting the practice field. The team laughed at me because my lines were crooked."

But in this, his senior year, Showie and his crew received nothing but high praise for their efforts throughout the season.

"It took us 45 hours for us to get the field ready for the first game," said Showie. "I couldn't have done any of this without them."

The trio starts field preparation on Wednesday's of each week.

In his freshman year, Showie painted the numbers while Bitto did the lines.

"I asked coach if I could do all of it this year and he said yes. He had a lot of confidence in me," recalled Showie.

Getting the lines straight was the biggest obstacle.

"We have templates now so it's a little easier," said Showie. "We use a rope so we can see the lines because they are hard to see (from the previous week's game).

The biggest accomplishment and proudest moment for the trio was undoubtedly homecoming.

'It's a little sad, that this was probably our last home game. But it was a long season. Very well worth it, though. I have a lot of fond memories'

Carmel's Kris Schoenberger

"Coach Bitto agreed to do the stensils and they turned out pretty good," Showie said. "We also added corner pylons because the old one's used to blow over in the wind. Both sidelines were also extended. The field looked awesome, though. Every line was straight."

Showie plans on going to CLC following graduation.

"I'd like to get a degree in teaching," he said. "I also plan on opening my own construction company."

Actually, during the playoffs, Showie achieved that goal of opening his own business.

Two years of construction-related coursework at College of Lake County's Technology Campus helped 'Showie's Home Maintenance' open its doors in early November.

"We were taught the fundamentals, like laying preparing walls and hanging dry wall," he said. "At the end of the courses, we get to renovate a house in Round Lake. It was donated to the park district and will ultimately be a teen center."

He's had a handful of jobs already, from installing a front door on a house to cutting up driveways.

"It's been difficult at times because people call and find out I'm only 17," he said. "They wonder if you have enough experience. You just have to keep your confidence up and persevere."

Showie's business offerings are pretty diverse. Jobs he performs include decorative landscaping, painting, tile roofing, snow removal, bedroom remodeling and wallpapering, just to name a few.

For a free estimate, interested customers can call Showie at 614-1328.

Showie still plans on preparing Carmel's field even after graduating from the Mundelein school next spring.

"It's a little sad, that this was our last home game," he said after Carmel had defeated Rockford Boylan 35-7 in the second round of the Class 6A State playoffs. "But it was a long season. Very well worth it, though. I have a lot of fond memories."

The biggest driving force behind Showie has been the inspiration received by his mother, Denise Schell.

"She taught me how to be a helpful person," he said. "She's been very supportive and I love her to death."

Henricks one of 'good hands people' for Carmel

Football injuries held in check by Condell trainer

By JOHN PEHLPS
Sports Editor

Somehow one knew Carmel Athletic Trainer Dan Henricks might end up back at his alma mater.

Proper conditioning, training and a good trainer all played a major factor in the success of Carmel's football team this season.

"We had a torn ACL injury on the sophomore team and a concussion and some ankle sprains on varsity (this fall)," said Henricks, a 1992 graduate of the Mundelein school.

"Overall, though, we had a pretty healthy fall season. There were hardly any serious injuries."

And if a player got injured, Henricks was just the guy who knew how to get them back in form as quickly as possible.

"If they had a sprained ankle, for instance, they just sit out and we rest them up for the next game," he said.

"As much as I don't like seeing any of the kids get hurt, it's an opportunity for me to work on them. I really enjoy doing what I do."

While knowledge seems like a given for Henricks, having a good rapport with personnel and the players is of equal importance.

"There are a lot of coaches that were here when I was a student," said Henricks, who was an athlete himself, playing soccer for four years while wrestling his freshman year.

"The kids are great. We have a lot of respect for one another. And the coaches are terrific. Everyone here trusts each other."

Henricks is one of several area high school athletic trainers that are contracted through Condell Medical Center.

Following graduation from Carmel, Henricks earned his BA in Athletic Training from Western Illinois University in 1997.

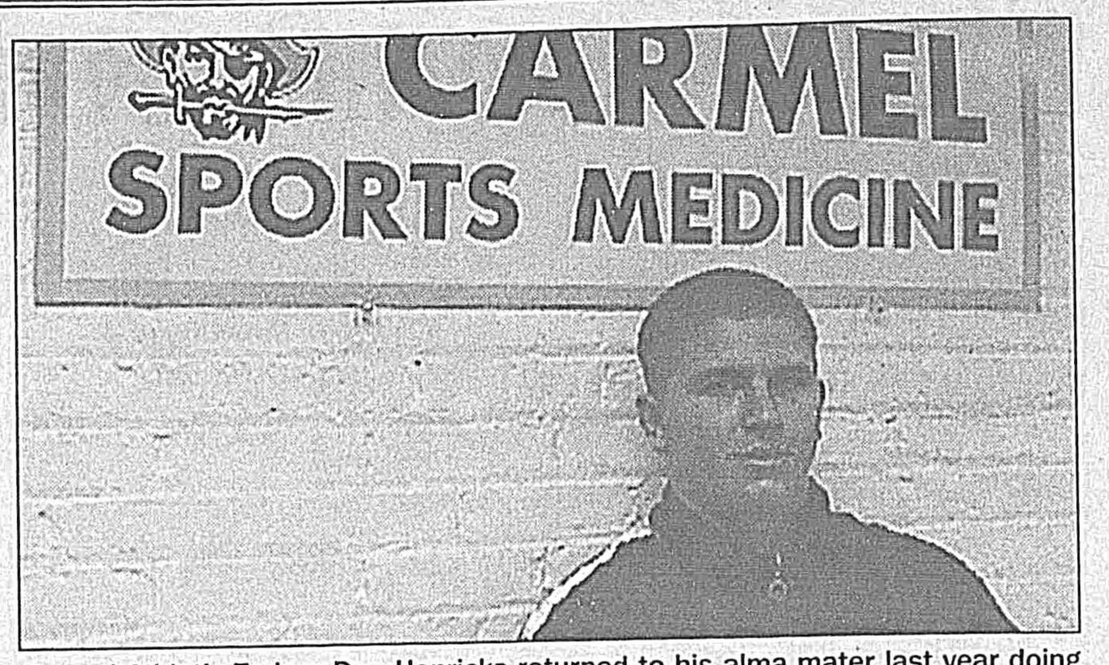

From there, he went to work for HealthSouth for the ensuing year-and-a-half.

Notre Dame was next one the list, where Henricks was the head athletic trainer during the 1998-99 season.

After his stint with the Irish, Henricks decided to go back to Western for his Masters degree in Exercise Science.

"While I was getting my Masters, I was in charge of working with the men's soccer and women's volleyball teams," he said.

With the decorated past, Henricks then ended up at Carmel, where he is currently in his second year.

"It's a great fit for both Dan and Carmel," said Condell Director of Sports Medicine Larry Scire.

"It always helps when you're comfortable with your environment and you know a lot of the people around you. I know he's very happy there."

It took a little time to evolve but Henricks is right at home at the Catholic League school.

"I always hung around the training room," he said.

"I've wanted to do this (athletic training) since my sophomore year in high school. I've love sports and like working with the kids."

Condell Medical Center started contracting athletic trainers to area high schools in 1990.

"The hospital and school work very well together—it's a great fit," said Henricks.

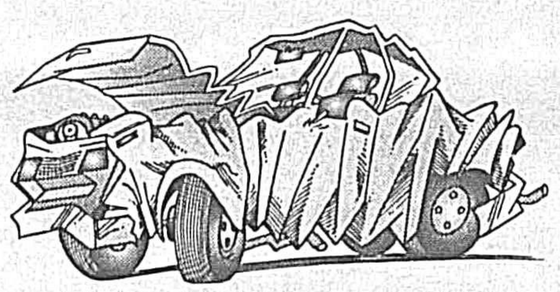

Just like the 'fit' Henricks has always had with Carmel.

Success breeds success when it comes to Corsair football

Energy, results filter down from varsity level

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Carmel Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Andy Bitto remembers the phone conversation with his sophomore football coach Larry Whittier.

"When I took over (as head coach for varsity) four years ago, I called Larry and asked him if he'd consider coming back to help coach the sophomores," recalled Bitto.

'The people (at Carmel) are incredible. Everyone puts in a lot of personal sacrifice.'

Larry Whittier, sophomore football

"I told him if you stop moving, you're going to die."

Whittier accepted without too much hesitation probably because he'd been down the Carmel road for many years past.

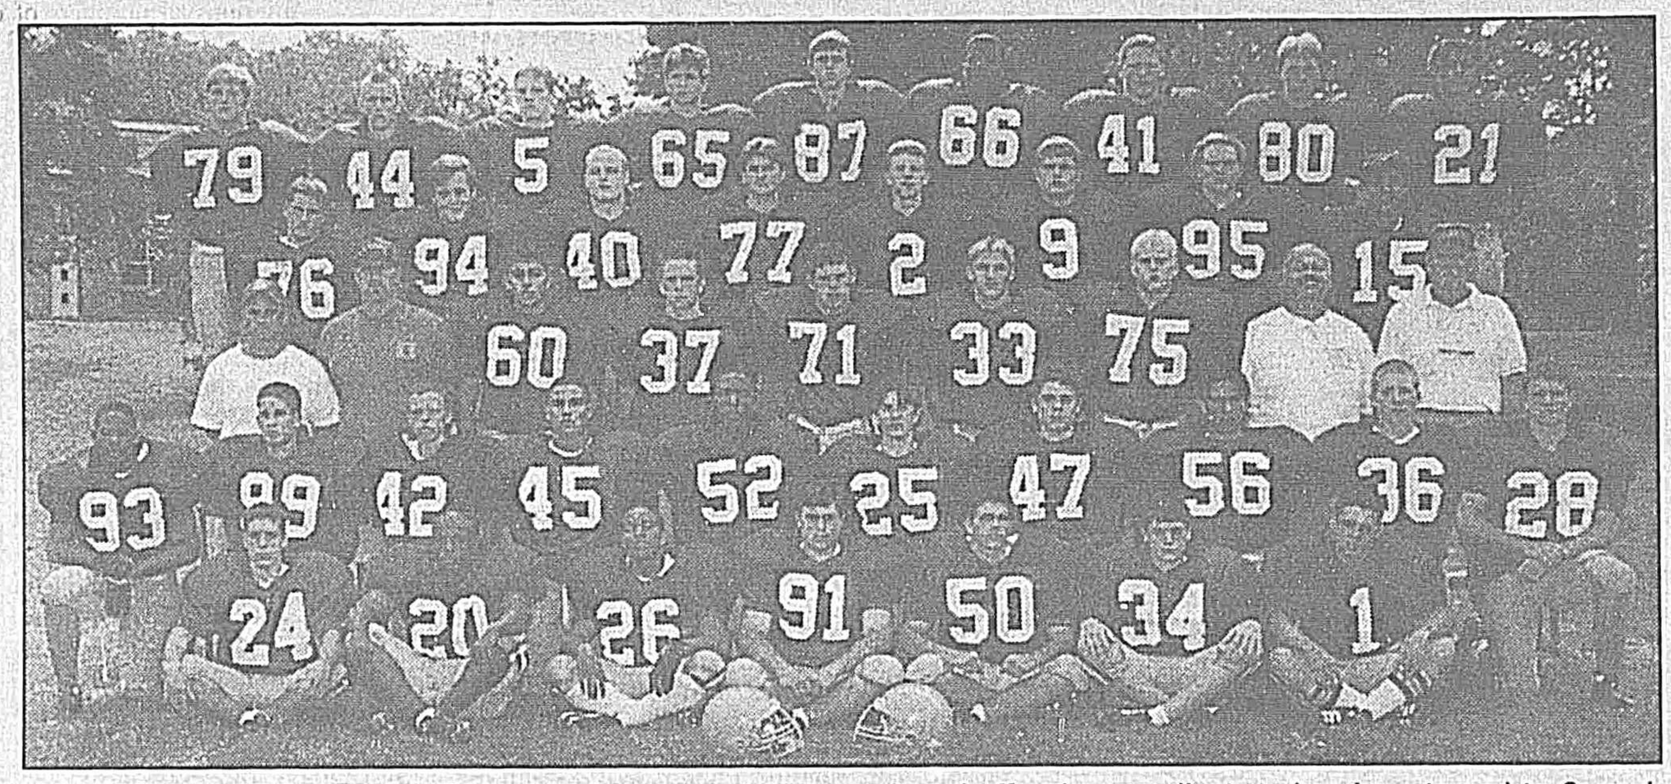

Bitto replaced Mike Fitzgibbons as the varsity coach while Whittier moved in to assist Joe Rejczyk as assistant coach and offensive coordinator. Rejczyk then went on to graduate school the following year and Whittier moved into the head coaching spot.

"I've always had a great bunch of coaches to work for and with (at Carmel)," said Whittier, whose team finished 8-1 this fall. Actually, since returning to take over the sophomores, Whittier's teams have finished 8-1 and have either won or shared the Catholic Metro White Conference title all four years.

"The people (at Carmel) are incredible. Everyone puts in a lot of personal sacrifice."

Varsity defensive coordinator Jim Rejc, offensive coordinator Jim Kelly and offensive line coach Tom Berg have all been there to provide Whittier with helpful anecdotes.

"I'll walk across the field (during practices) and pick all of these guys brains," said Whittier. "They're all super guys. And geniuses."

Larry Whittier, middle row, far right, served as an assistant coach and offensive coordinator when he returned to Carmel in 1998. A year later, he took over the head coaching position from Joe Rejczyk (middle row, second from right) who decided to return to graduate school to earn his Master's.—Photo courtesy Carmel High School yearbook

Which helps explain why Carmel's under level teams are as successful. Whittier and the sophomores benefit from the varsity.

"In a way, it starts at the freshman level," said Whittier. "But in actuality, success starts at the top with Andy (Bitto) and bleeds down from there. He (Bitto) is one of the most energetic, enthusiastic and knowledgeable coaches around. He is a man of integrity and listens to any idea someone might have."

Whittier is testament to the fact that unity and chemistry promotes togetherness.

I learn something new from the varsity coaches everyday," he said.

Whittier began his coaching career when he was the freshman assistant football coach in 1986. Since that time, he has coached at Carmel off and on for nine years.

"I remember my first year. It was the biggest turnout for football I think we've ever had (120 kids)," said Whittier, who served under then head coach Jay Hoffman. Hoffman has since moved on to become the head boys golf coach at Lake Forest High School.

Since 1986, Whittier had also coached The College of Lake County cross country teams for nine years while also serving as Carmel's head varsity girl's basketball coach from 1991-95.

While at CLC, Whittier's teams produced seven straight Skyway Conference titles while also sending numerous individuals to the National meet. Jim Halford, the current Carmel head cross country coach, was a member on two of those teams. The Carmel varsity girls also experienced success having won a regional title, the school's second, during the 1994-95 season.

"There were obviously some years the overlapped at Carmel," he said.

At CLC, Whittier also served as athletic director for one year before becoming a guidance counselor at the college for the next 12 years. He was absent from the coaching world for three years (1995-98) before retiring from his counseling position at CLC in 1999.

Whittier had also previously been a coach for the Warren Township Youth Football program from 1981-95.

But all roads have led back to Carmel.

"This is just a very exciting program and atmosphere to be around," he said. "There's a business-like aura here but so much spirit. And it all starts with Bitto. His enthusiasm passes down through the entire staff and to all of the kids who play for the program. One of his greatest traits is he is extremely unselfish. These are just a few of the reason's kids want to play for him and Carmel. I know I wouldn't be here if it wasn't for him."

LAKE COUNTY FOREST PRESERVE NEWS

Anglers can help control largemouth bass virus

The Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) is asking anglers in Lake County for help in preventing the spread of a virus that has recently killed several largemouth bass fish in other states. Recent tests conducted by the IDNR confirm the presence of the virus in some downstate lakes and hatcheries. Though the virus may also be present in northern waters, it has not been confirmed in Lake County and, to date, no fish kills have occurred in Illinois.

According to IDNR officials, infested bass appear normal and are safe to consume. Not all largemouth bass that may be carrying the virus are diseased. Researchers believe stress factors such as high water temperatures or frequent handling by anglers may cause fish with the virus to develop disease. If the virus triggers disease it could impact the fish's swim bladder, forcing the bass closer to the water's surface and making swimming more difficult.

"Bass fishing is a popular pastime in Lake County. What impacts Illinois waters also affects the lakes and ponds in the Lake County Forest Preserves. We work with the IDNR to manage our Forest Preserve lakes, so it's important that we join this effort to educate anglers about this virus and how they can actively help control its spread in Illinois," stated Jennifer Filipiak, Forest Preserve Wildlife Biologist.

Forest Preserve and IDNR officials are asking anglers not to move fish from one body of water to another or release live bait into the water. Anglers also should drain water from live wells and clean motors, equipment and boats thoroughly between fishing trips.

Any unusual numbers of dying fish seen in Lake County Forest Preserve lakes should be reported to Jennifer Filipiak, Forest Preserve Wildlife Biologist, at 847-968-3283. For other Lake County or Illinois lakes, sightings should be reported to the IDNR's hotline at 1-877-236-7529.

The Lake County Forest Preserves offers fishing at 10 Forest Preserves throughout Lake County and along the Des Plaines River at five canoe launches. Many of the lakes are stocked each fall and spring. For a free guide to fishing in the Forest Preserves, call 847-367-6640.

Diplomacy at work is good, but the truth should not be distorted
By Scott T. Fleischmann

People tell me that I have a type A personality. A part of their description is that I am usually trying to accomplish more than can reasonably be achieved in an unreasonable period of time. This sense of urgency sometimes creates a communications problem. As I strive for speed and efficiency, I have a tendency to be as concise as possible in my communications. The problem is created when I offend people by trying to quickly share the information that is necessary without regard for the diplomacy that is normally expected in a work situation.

This was brought to my attention very early in my career. Just before accepting my first management position, the manager who did my performance evaluation brought it to my attention. The valuation was glowing but just before I left her office she said "Scott, if you need to work on anything, it is that you are too truthful." Later, as I analyzed that comment, I realized that she was talking about the balance between diplomacy and truth.

In reality we can never have too much truth. However, people and my relationship to them are just as important as the truth, so I need to share it in a manner that is not offensive. My manger was not complaining about the truth, she was suggesting that I need to be more sensitive and diplomatic. These are skills that can be mastered by taking the time to listen more carefully to others and carefully weighing your words before speaking. Those who know me have seen this evolution in my life.

Telling the truth with gentleness and respect is not always easy. However, the alternatives have far greater risks. The consequences for stretching the truth include:

- Job loss for indicating that your skills are stronger than you can substantiate.
- Jeopardizing yourself, other people or your company when decisions are made based on bad information.
- Developing relationships that are not based on trust.

On the other hand, risks for lack of diplomacy are:

- Alienating peers, subordinates, and/or superiors.
- Building a reputation as one who is self serving
- Having others disregard your truthful advice because they become defensive.

As you can see, neither of these options accomplishes positive results. The only proper response is to share the important truth in a spirit of gentleness and respect. Did you notice the qualifying word "important" before the word truth? It is there for a reason. The determining factor in sharing truth needs to be its significance. This is one of the facts that I learned tin the process of putting the truth and diplomacy in perspective. We will explore more about diplomatically sharing the truth next week.

Scott T. Fleischmann is the Managing Principal for Integrity Business Solutions Inc., a full service management consulting firm. He can be contacted through e-mail at ibs.scottf@juno.com or through the company web site at www.aboutintegrity.net.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been searching all the newspapers as well as the internet for positions needing IT people. I lost my position after two years when my employer, a consulting firm went bankrupt and left me with no severance package. It is what I know best. After 5 months of searching for a new employer, I feel like I have hit a dead end and need to find work. My spouse said I should channel my efforts in another direction and give up on trying to find something in the field I know. I haven't been willing to settle for less than what I was making before but I'm realizing now that I might be setting my sights too high. I am having a hard time coming up with an alternative that will net me the same money I was making before. Attached is a copy of my resume with salary history. If you could provide me with some ideas I would appreciate it. S.C. (via eMail-Attachment)

A: Your position was in an area that has been hard hit over the past year. I see by your salary history that you have left a position paying you a salary that by comparison exceeds the market range for what your responsibilities included. If you are forwarding your resume with this salary history included, my advice is to eliminate it. It may be that your salary is causing your resume to be filtered out of the running as there are IT persons requiring substantially less. Check out the companies that you were contracted at. More and more companies are seriously reducing their use of consultants and using their own IT personnel. Keep your salary requirement in perspective. Recognize the need for corporations to keep their IT budgets lower than ever during tough times. The market has somewhat dictated that technology within many corporations is the one area that gets cut back in tighter times. As it swings upward it will be of major importance for these same corporations to get their technology and plans for it back on track. Keep your name out there.

Your spouse may be right by saying you should channel your efforts elsewhere at this point, however, it doesn't mean something won't come along in your field. Five months is a long time to be unemployed but as you continue to look, you may want to search for a position in CSR (customer service) which requires research, trouble shooting skills, good eye for detail and the ability to work independently or in a supervisory capacity. Seeing this is what you have listed as your responsibilities, you have all the experience. It may never pay as much as you have previously made, however, judging from your high salary and the possibility that the company had salaries over all that exceeded the market, this may be one of the reasons for it's demise. Good Luck.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been searching all the newspapers as well as the internet for positions needing IT people. I lost my position after two years when my employer, a consulting firm went bankrupt and left me with no severance package. It is what I know best. After 5 months of searching for a new employer, I feel like I have hit a dead end and need to find work. My spouse said I should channel my efforts in another direction and give up on trying to find something in the field I know. I haven't been willing to settle for less than what I was making before but I'm realizing now that I might be setting my sights too high. I am having a hard time coming up with an alternative that will net me the same money I was making before. Attached is a copy of my resume with salary history. If you could provide me with some ideas I would appreciate it. S.C. (via eMail-Attachment)

A: Your position was in an area that has been hard hit over the past year. I see by your salary history that you have left a position paying you a salary that by comparison exceeds the market range for what your responsibilities included. If you are forwarding your resume with this salary history included, my advice is to eliminate it. It may be that your salary is causing your resume to be filtered out of the running as there are IT persons requiring substantially less. Check out the companies that you were contracted at. More and more companies are seriously reducing their use of consultants and using their own IT personnel. Keep your salary requirement in perspective. Recognize the need for corporations to keep their IT budgets lower than ever during tough times. The market has somewhat dictated that technology within many corporations is the one area that gets cut back in tighter times. As it swings upward it will be of major importance for these same corporations to get their technology and plans for it back on track. Keep your name out there.

Your spouse may be right by saying you should channel your efforts elsewhere at this point, however, it doesn't mean something won't come along in your field. Five months is a long time to be unemployed but as you continue to look, you may want to search for a position in CSR (customer service) which requires research, trouble shooting skills, good eye for detail and the ability to work independently or in a supervisory capacity. Seeing this is what you have listed as your responsibilities, you have all the experience. It may never pay as much as you have previously made, however, judging from your high salary and the possibility that the company had salaries over all that exceeded the market, this may be one of the reasons for it's demise. Good Luck.

Pet OF THE WEEK

Puppies or Kittens...?
Which is the most adorable or irresistible? Both are endearing, both make affectionate and very loyal companions. Both also are a responsibility and a commitment that are well worth the effort for the wonderful rewards. The Assisi Animal Foundation of Crystal Lake has these wonderful options available for lucky homes. The A.A.F. also has wonderful adolescent and grown companions available. If you have room in your heart and your home, consider adding a new family member whose companionship will be a lifetime plus! The A.A.F. also welcomes and needs volunteers any morning of the week. If you can spare as little as an hour a week and love animals, join the team. It will be time well spent and enjoyed.
